Watergate Broadcast Blackout Decision Put Off

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge today put off a decision on whether to black out broadcast news coverage of key testimony at the Senate Watergate hearings, while another judge cleared the way for the committee to hear former Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans.

In Washington, U.S. Dist. Judge John J. Sirica said he would rule Tuesday on a request by special prosecutor Archibald Cox, who wants the committee to take testimony without television and radio coverage from anyone facing indictment in the Watergate scandal. The committee opposed the request.

In oral arguments today, special prosecutors never mentioned the request contained in their original motion that would move the hearings into closed session.

Stans, already under indictment in a related case in New York, had balked at talking to the Senate panel on grounds that the judge in the New York case had given orders against pretrial publicity.

But today the judge, Lee P. Gagliardi, said testimony by Stans before the Senate unit wouldn't violate the order. The Senate committee has said it wants Stans available for questioning next week. He is under subpoena.

Stans has pleaded innocent in New York to charges of fraud, obstructing justice and perjury in connection with a $200,000 secret cash gift to the Nixon campaign last year by Robert L. Vesco, accused of looting millions from mutual funds.

In Washington, Sirica today heard arguments from both sides on the matter of restricting news coverage of certain testimony.

Philip B. Heymann, associate special prosecutor, argued that with radio and television coverage "the possibility of fair (Watergate) trials at an early date is threatened seriously—not hopelessly—but seriously."

Samuel Dash, chief counsel for the Senate committee, opposed the prosecution's request on grounds that that publicity generated by a legislative committee hearing "has never been held by any court as preventing prosecution."

Sirica asked Heymann, "Do you expect indictments? If so, when?"

"We certainly expect indictments. He replied and referred to a prediction from the U.S. attorney's office that they might be out by the end of the summer."

He said special prosecutor Archibald Cox would not go beyond that prediction at this time.

The Watergate committee, headed by Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., earlier refused a request by Cox to postpone its hearings. Cox then asked Sirica to force the committee to take testimony behind closed doors from anyone who faces indictment, or at least to bar radio and television coverage of such testimony.

Those reportedly facing indictment include former White House aides H. R. Haldeman, John D. Ehrlichman and John W. Dean III and former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, former Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans and former Nixon reelection officials Jeb S. Magruder, Frederick C. LaRue and Robert C. Mardian.

In the court action today, the four networks—CBS, NBC, ABC and the Public Broadcasting System—filed a brief asking that "the broadcast press...not be prevented from exercising its responsibilities to the public."

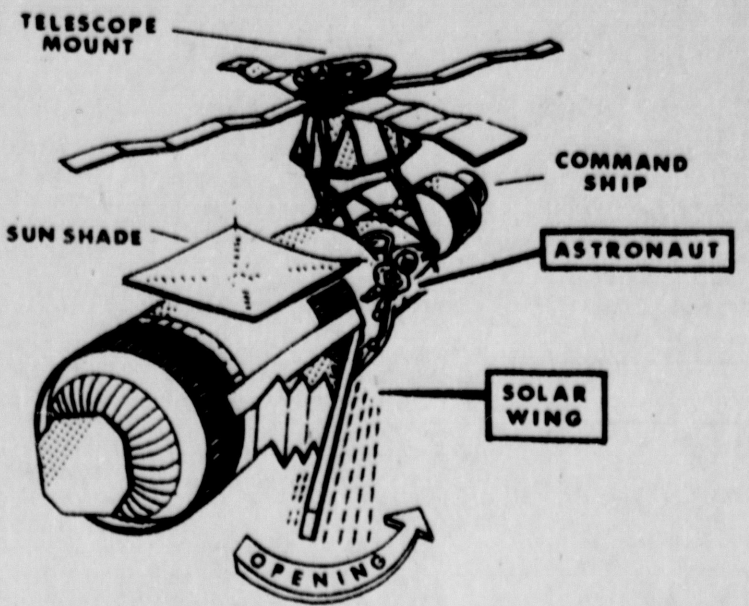

The brief said that public Senate hearings historically have been open to live broadcast coverage and, if the Senate Watergate committee continues in open session, "there should be no court prohibition against live radio and television coverage."

Originally Sirica had asked for arguments on whether he had any choice but to grant witnesses immunity from prosecution on the basis of their testimony before the Senate committee.

On that issue, both sides agreed, saying the judge must grant immunity at the request of the committee. Witnesses still could be prosecuted on the basis of evidence developed from other sources.

The Washington Post, meanwhile, quoted sources in today's editions as saying that Ervin will ask the Senate to broaden the committee's authority to allow investigation of Nixon administration actions taken in the name of national security.

Hall Smith, a spokesman for Ervin, denied existence of such a resolution, which the Post said was drafted by Ervin and his staff. "There is no resolution," Smith said.

SKYLAB 1

Skylab Repaired

This chart illustrates operation of the jammed solar electric generating wing on Skylab 1 which was opened Thursday by mission commander Charles "Pete" Conrad and Joseph P. Kerwin.

Repair of the solar wing by the spacewalkers apparently solved Skylab's energy crisis and presumably assures the space station of a long productive life in space. (UPI)

Power Transfusion Revitalizes Skylab

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Revitalized by a power transfusion, Skylab's astronauts soared around the world today with more lights, warmer water, hotter food and an excellent chance to complete a full 28-day mission.

"We can stop living like the mole in Dick Tracy," commander Charles Conrad Jr. remarked Thursday after a daring, difficult space walk during which he and Dr. Joseph P. Kerwin released a jammed solar wing. Because of a power shortage, Conrad, Kerwin and Paul J. Weitz have had to curtail experiments, turn off lights and eat cold food.

But with the solar wing deployed, new energy capable of doubling the space station's supply surged into service almost immediately.

Space agency officials hailed the space walk and said the new power practically assures that the astronauts can run a full schedule of experiments for the remainder of the planned four-week journey.

They were half way there as early this morning they set a duration record for an American manned space flight. At 3:36 a.m. EDT, they surpassed the 13-day, 18-hour, 35-minute mark set by Gemini 7 in 1965.

Their target: the 24-day record set two years ago by three Russian cosmonauts.

The astronauts immediate goal was to clean up their spaceship, cluttered with ropes, tools, tethers and tubes that they had assembled for the space walk.

"We've sure got a mess in here," Conrad reported.

So mission control blocked off several hours in today's flight plan for "clean up." Also on the schedule were a resumption of medical experiments and sessions with the solar astronomy telescopes.

The astronauts also planned today to keep an eye on the system that cools electronic instruments with a fluid flow.

Americans Sign Pact To Import Soviet Gas

MOSCOW (AP) — Two American firms signed a letter of intent today to import more than $10 billion worth of natural gas from the Soviet Union over a 25-year period.

The agreement was between the El Paso Natural Gas Co. and Occidental Petroleum Corp. on the one side and the Soviet Ministry of Foreign Trade on the other.

Occidental chairman Armand Hammer announced the "agreement of intention" at a news conference.

"Quantities up to two billion cubic feet per day are contemplated," Hammer said. "At current market prices, such gas over the 25-year term of the agreement would exceed $10 billion to the U.S.S.R. It is expected that this sum will be spent for U.S. goods and services."

Hammer said the project will require a 2,000-mile pipeline from Yakutsk to the Vladivostok area, "the largest liquefaction plant" ever envisaged and a fleet of 20 cryogenic tankers.

Hammer said that the hard currency financing for the project, excluding the ships, will be about $2 billion.

Hammer said that Japanese firms which have been negotiating with the Soviets may participate in the project and take a portion of the gas.

The Soviet gas provided for by the agreement is intended for the West Coast of the United States, Hammer said.

Asked about probable delivery dates, the Occidental Petroleum chairman said it will take about six years for Russian gas to cook American steaks.

Howard Boyd, the El Paso chairman who took part in signing the protocol, said one of the major problems to be settled before the agreement became firm was that of price. He said the price of the Soviet gas "will have to be competitive with other liquid natural gas sources" in the world.

He said negotiations on an acceptable price "will undoubtedly take time."

Agreement Is Reached On Improvements Bill

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A House-Senate conference committee of the Missouri Legislature worked through the night on a capital improvements bill and finally agreed this morning on a figure of $62.8 million for the next fiscal year.

The committee spent more than 15 hours and was just about to call it quits at 4:30 a.m. with no agreement reached.

The five senators and five representatives spent the next half hour discussing nonbudget topics and then the appropriations chairman on each side agreed to split the difference on the amount of money they were still apart.

The House-Senate committee also recommended a $220,000 expenditure for improvements at the Missouri State Fair. Ron Jones, secretary of the Fair, and Commissioner of Agriculture James Boillot early this month requested approval of $226,400.

The committee recommendation is now subject to approval by both the Senate and the House. If received, the cash would be used to create several major additions to the Fair and make repairs on existing facilities, Jones indicated earlier. He also said at that time that no matter how soon the money is received, work on the various projects would not be completed in time for this year's Fair.

The bill must now be approved on the floor of each house before going to the governor.

The committee agreed to a figure of $7.6 million for the first phase of construction on a new wing for the Ellis Fischel Cancer Hospital at Columbia. The total cost was estimated at $15.5 million and the remainder will have to be appropriated in a future budget.

Earlier, the House had approved $11.5 million for the new hospital construction, but the Senate approved only $20,000 for repairs.

One of the last stumbling blocks was the amount of money for Missouri Western University at St. Joseph and Missouri Southern at Joplin. Sen. Richard Webster, R-Carthage, successfully held out for the higher amounts approved by the Senate. Missouri Western gets $120,000 for remodeling purposes and Missouri Southern gets $110,000.

The House had approved capital improvement expenditures of $87.4 million for 1973-74 while the Senate's figure was $52 million. The governor had recommended $45 million. Most of the money will come from federal revenue sharing funds.

Meir To Visit Germany

JERUSALEM (AP) — Chancellor Willy Brandt ended his talks with Premier Golda Meir today and announced that she had agreed to make the first visit to Germany by a top Israeli leader.

Brandt made the surprise statement at a news conference after a two-hour working session with Mrs. Meir.

The prospect of a premier from the Jewish state visiting Germany is bound to rouse heated debate in Israel, where the wartime slaughter of six million Jews remains a vivid nightmare.

Mrs. Meir's acceptance of Brandt's invitation was seen as a sign of Israeli willingness to open a new page in relations.

Brandt said the date of Mrs. Meir's visit would be arranged through diplomatic channels.

Security forces were on full alert to guard Brandt as his armed motorcade drove through Jerusalem.

On the dispute in the Middle East, Brandt said Germany would support U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim's attempts to arrange peace talks between the Arabs and Israel.

"We want to see a peaceful solution negotiated by — and acceptable to — those directly concerned," Brandt said in a prepared statement.

The chancellor's statement supported Israel's demands for direct peace talks, but otherwise it appeared unlikely to satisfy his hosts.

Brandt began the second day of his four-day stay with a courtesy call on President Ephraim Katzir. The two exchanged pleasantries and Katzir presented Brandt with a 2,000-year-old glass vase excavated in the Holy Land.

After touring the newly-elected president's official residence and talking in private, Brandt headed for Mrs. Meir's office in a heavily-armed motorcade. Troops lined the streets along the route, part of the extra tight guard protecting the chancellor.

Mrs. Meir accompanied Brandt to Katzir's residence and drove with him to her office.

Israeli officials told newsmen Thursday that the German state secretary, Dr. Paul Frank, had made no mention of any special relationship with Israel in his opening talks with an Israeli delegation.

Frank told the Israelis that Bonn's recent resumption of relations with the Arab states would not be at Israel's expense, and he stressed the importance of ending tension in the Mideast.

Israeli officials said it seemed clear that Bonn wanted the Arabs to follow its own example and try to negotiate a settlement, and Israel to be more flexible on the problem of returning Arab land won in the 1967 Mideast war.

Allocation of Funds Disclosed by Court

The Pettis County Court Friday disclosed how it will spend approximately $111,574 in this year's first two revenue sharing payments.

The court said $75,000 will go toward the proposed reassessment of the county; $22,000 for the courthouse roof; $10,000 for upgrading Buena Vista Home; $3,250 for a tractor for the county highway department; and $1,324 for lumber to be used to repair bridges.

The court had to budget the funds before June 30 to comply with U. S. Treasury Department guidelines in order to receive future funding.

Pettis County received the first of four 1973 revenue sharing payments in February, in the amount of $55,787. Although the second revenue sharing check is not expected until July, federal officials told governmental units to budget the second check as the same amount as the first.

Presiding Judge Harry Walch said Friday the court now has approximately $150,000 earmarked for the reassessment task. He said the funds received through revenue sharing last year and not appropriated will be used to cover the remainder of the project cost. Walch had said that the remaining $75,000 would come from this year's two final revenue sharing checks.

Of the budgeted items, the court already has bought the road department's tractor. The roof project at the courthouse also has been completed.

Walch said the $10,000 appropriated for repairing Buena Vista Home have not been earmarked for any specific improvements. "We'll decide how this money will be used when they (Buena Vista officials) come in with their plans," he said.

Western District Judge John Blumh Jr. said the lumber will be used to make repairs on many of the bridges damaged by recent heavy rains.

Walch said the court probably will have to budget the money to be received in the last two revenue sharing checks. Eastern District Judge E. L. Birdsong said the budgeting of revenue sharing funds received last year did not have to be approved by U. S. Treasury Department officials.

The court also disclosed Friday that proposals on how to spend the revenue sharing funds, presented to the court May 17 at a public hearing, may again be discussed by the court at any future budgeting session.

Persons at the public hearing requested the court to spend revenue sharing funds on a venereal disease program; a 14-passenger bus for elderly persons; Project WESTENMO, a 13-county federally-funded pediatric and health care program; radios for the local Civil Defense network; a waste disposal plant; and rural fire identification system.

The court said it presently is awaiting information on possible funding of a venereal disease program and facts about a

Franco Names Blanco President of Spain

MADRID (AP) — Gen. Francisco Franco gave up two of his four superpowers today by naming Adm. Luis Carrero Blanco as president of Spain, but kept final authority for himself.

The move was seen as the first step by the 80-year-old leader toward retirement — a move that under the present law of succession would bring Prince Juan Carlos to the throne as king and chief of state.

The posts being given up by Franco are those of the president of government, or premier, and chief of Spain's only political party, the Movement.

He remains as chief of state, the nation's highest post, and head of the armed forces.

The moves diluted little of the supreme power that Franco has held since he came to power more than three decades ago at the end of the Spanish Civil War.

Reports of a major government shakeup have been floating around Madrid the past few days. This morning word that Franco was giving up the presidency came from official sources. Later the news agency Cifra, confirmed the reports, saying Carrero Blanco, who is 70, would be sworn in Saturday morning.

The admiral has long been Franco's trusted lieutenant.

As president, Carrero Blanco would perform such tasks as presiding over Cabinet meetings and seeing that Franco's policies are carried out.

The generalissimo has said that the post of chief of state, on his retirement or death, would go to Prince Juan Carlos, who would become king. Juan Carlos was handpicked by Franco over other claimants to the Spanish throne to serve as his successor.

Up to now, Carrero Blanco has been vice president or deputy government leader.

Franco's decision was reported to have been made after a meeting Wednesday of the Secret Council of the Realm, Franco's consultative body.

This would be the first time that Franco had relinquished any of his powers. But Carrero Blanco is regarded as a staunchly loyal to the generalissimo.

Increased Violations Reported

Cease-fire Talks Deadlocked Again

SAIGON (AP) — Talks between South Vietnamese government and Viet Cong officers on strengthening the cease-fire deadlocked again today and the Saigon command reported enemy attacks increased to the highest number in two months.

The command charged 133 violations of the cease-fire by the Communist side during the 24-hour period ending at dawn, including several shelling and small-scale infantry attacks within 5 to 25 miles of the capital.

Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien, chief command spokesman, said this was the highest number of incidents since April 14 and one-third more than the daily average over the past two months.

Government and Viet Cong representatives traded angry charges at a Joint Military Commission session on the question of zones of control, a major unresolved issue that has kept the fighting going.

The South Vietnamese government indicated it is prepared to sign a joint appeal calling for a cessation of hostilities in Vietnam. But it hedged this with hints of disagreement with the United States.

In Paris, Henry A. Kissinger conferred more than two hours with French Foreign Minister Michel Jobert, but a scheduled negotiating session with Hanoi's Le Duc Tho was called off.

No reason was given for the postponement, nor would officials say who had requested it. But the fact that the American embassy made the announcement indicated that it was the U.S. side, which is reportedly in disagreement with Saigon over some political issues Kissinger and Tho are said to be working on.

The postponement would give the U.S. side additional time to consult with Saigon in hopes of adopting a mutual strategy.

Kissinger and Tho scheduled their next meeting for Saturday.

The Saigon government, while not a party to the negotiations, announced that it is in "close contact" with the United States with the aim of adopting a "common strategy."

Informants indicated that intensive consultations were under way between the United States and Saigon on the issue of which South Vietnamese side—the Saigon government or the Viet Cong—controls what.

The original agreement calls for a delineation of zones of control, but it has been ignored and is largely responsible for the continued bloodshed as each side tries to hold on to what it has, or to grab up additional territory.

Group Urges Independent Chaplain Corps

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — For the first time, an official task force of a major Christian denomination has concluded that chaplains for the armed forces should be freed of military control to protect their "right to speak for God."

The present system compromises their "liberty under the gospel," tends to exploit them for "military ends" and "subordinates the mission of the church to the mission of the military," the report maintains. The issue has caused growing concern lately in the churches, sharpened by U.S. military action in Southeast Asia, but not before has an agency of a major denomination called for drastic change in the long-time chaplaincy system.

Its basic pattern has existed ever since the American Revolution and founding of the nation, and has become a formally established part of the military tables of organization.

But the study report of a United Church of Christ task force concludes that the system which subjects chaplains to military chain of command should be ended and replaced by an independent chaplains corps.

"Unless the church can obtain reasonable guarantees for the freedom of the military ministry the church may find that it renders unto Caesar the chaplains themselves," the report declares.

"Of all those who must be granted religious freedom in the military, the chaplain must have it first, or that same freedom is in jeopardy for all."

The findings and proposals are to go before the two million-member United Church, which stems from the church of the early American pilgrims, at its governing synod June 22-26 in St. Louis.

A task force member, the Rev. Ralph Weltge of Philadelphia, head of the denomination's Young Adult Ministries, summarized the findings in the current American Report, published by an interfaith peace group, Clergy and Laity Concerned.

The recommendations involve "startling departures," he says, adding they may be considered the "meanest cut of all" by some military chaplains, but the report actually is "very pro-chaplain."

The report urges abolition of officers' rank for chaplains, the use of soldier-chaplains only in militarily restricted situations, and otherwise the operation of an independent civilian chaplaincy for military personnel.

Citing sections of an Army field manual, the report says: "Statements of military theology demonstrate quite clearly that it is the duty of the chaplain to underpin patriotism with religion, to infuse the killing of the enemy with the nuances of a crusade, and to sacralize dying with assurance that one's life is given for God as well as country."

"Such religious nationalism is an abuse of the chaplain and his ministry, exploiting his primary mission for military ends and compromising his liberty under the Gospel."

The report says this tends to make the chaplain a "mere house priest."

New Pastor.

The Rev. Erhard Wolf, shown with his family, will be installed July 1 as the new pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, 701 South Massachusetts. The family will move into the church parsonage this weekend but he will not assume pastoral duties until installation. Mr. Wolf comes to Sedalia from Uniontown, Mo., where he served a congregation and also one at Longtown, Mo.

Church News

The Rev. Kenneth R. Locke of Jefferson City will be the guest speaker at the Sunday morning service at Broadway Presbyterian Church, Broadway and Kentucky.

Mr. Locke is executive presbyter of the Missouri Union Presbytery. His sermon topic for Pentecost Sunday is "The Church and Today's Mission."

Wayne Isgriggs will speak on "God is in a Hurry" at the Sunday morning worship service at First Baptist Church, Sixth and Lamine. The service will be broadcast over KSIS radio.

The evening sermon is entitled "The Trials of Life."

"God the Only Cause and Creator" will be the subject for members of the First Church of Christ Scientist, 120 East Sixth, this Sunday.

The Golden Text is Isaiah 46:9.

Special Pentecost services will be held at 10 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. Sunday at the Church of the Open Bible, with guests at both services.

Morning guests will be Dr. and Mrs. R.L. McCarter. He is a Blue Springs dentist. The evening guest will be the Rev. Jerry Hilton, Presbyterian pastor from Marshall. The public is invited.

The Mozarkian Singers from Independence will perform at 7:30 p.m. Sunday at the Mt. Herman Baptist Church, four miles north of Sedalia. The public is invited.

SWEET SPRINGS — "What is the Church?" will be the sermon topic of the Rev. Ross E. Haupt at 8 and 10:30 a.m. services Sunday at Immanuel Lutheran Church here.

The sermon is based on Ephesians 2:17-22.

Sunday school and Bible classes will be at 9:15 a.m. The first of two "cottage meetings" will be held at 8 p.m. Sunday.

'New Wine' Names Director

"It will be a challenge, but the field is ripe and I'm ready to go," said Ronald C. Altis, who this week assumed the duties as director of the New Wine Youth Center, South Limit and Clinton Road.

At 21, Altis brings experience and an educational background to his role as manager of the religious coffeehouse.

A recent graduate of Evangel College in Springfield, Mo., Altis majored in Bible studies and business administration. Both will be subjects highly useful in his new job.

Altis, a native of Cabool, Mo., previously worked at similar religious coffee houses in Springfield and Monnett. He also spent a summer in Germany as assistant director of a teen center in Stuttgart.

In announcing his appointment, the Rev. A. Wilson Phillips, president of the coffee house's board of directors, said, "We (board) felt we reached the point now where a full-time director was a must."

"I don't think any of us realized how this (New Wine) would grow, but the Holy Spirit drew many persons to us," he added.

The coffee house ministry began last June. Seven college students supplied most of the initial manpower and then turned the reins over to local persons when they returned to school.

Although originally started by the Assembly of God, the New Wine Youth Center formed a non-denominational, non-profit corporation last December.

The format of the coffee house is informal. "Rap" sessions and religious-oriented music of all types are the norm.

Altis said his goal will be to effectively manage the coffee house ministry and also to promote New Wine to the entire community. He also is available for speaking engagements, Mr. Phillips said.

Both Altis and Mr. Phillips emphasized the goal of New Wine is not to encourage young persons to seek their own type of Christianity, but to "encourage them to attend the local church of their choice," Mr. Phillips said.

"The coffee house is only a means to a spiritual end," he added.

Altis said he hopes to make physical improvements at the present facility and perhaps start a small library there. He also indicated he wishes to feature more local musicians at the teen center.

Why did Altis take the job? "I have a desire to help these kids both socially and spiritually. The Lord gave me this love."

Announce New Youth Minister

Bill Jetton, a native of DeSoto, Mo., will be the new minister of music and youth at the East Sedalia Baptist Church, 1019 East Fifth, a church spokesman announced Thursday.

Mr. Jetton will move to Sedalia from Artesia, N.M., where he presently serves the First Baptist Church there in a similar position. He also has been music and youth director at churches in Victoria and Lemay, Mo.

Mr. Jetton, his wife, Judy, and their three children will move to Sedalia the last week of June. He will assume his duties with the church the first Sunday of July.

'Children's Day' Program Sunday

"Children's Day," sponsored by the New Hope Church of God, will be held at 3 p.m. Sunday at the Salvation Army building, Fifth and Lamine.

The event will include performances by choral and singing groups. The program is under the direction of Melvin Kerr and Mrs. Robert Dabney.

Parents are urged to bring their children to the program, the Rev. Mrs. Anna Mae Williams, pastor of the New Hope Church of God, said. Refreshments will be served after the program. The public is invited.

Church Changes Its Name

The Northside New Hope Baptist Church, 402 West Henry, has merged with the Church of God, Anderson, Ind., and now will be known as the New Hope Church of God, the Rev. Mrs. A.M. Williams announced Thursday.

Mrs. Williams, pastor of the church, also announced that ground has been purchased for a new church building at the corner of East Henry and North Ohio. She said plans call for a groundbreaking ceremony in the near future.

20,000 Catholics Show Their Faith

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — A young man from Alexandria, La., sat on the steps of a University of Notre Dame building, wondering where he would sleep for the night.

"Well," concluded Greg Bonner, his face brightening, "I'll just leave it up to the Lord."

That was the kind of immersion in faith and reliance on it displayed here last weekend at a gathering of 20,000 Bible-carrying, Pentecostal-style Roman Catholics, rejoicing in Jesus.

They usually hugged each other on meeting, rather than shaking hands. They exuded such infectious cheer that ordinarily detached outsiders found themselves trading smiles and good-wishes with passersby.

It was a rare atmosphere. Here are a few scenes from it: A businessman in a golfer's cap and a companion sat on a low stone parapet near a campus golf course, taking in the sun. A pretty, shapely blonde, in miniskirt and halter, came up and handed them a card.

Before they examined it, she said, beaming, "I love you, too." As she sauntered on, the somewhat startled men looked at the card, which read, "Jesus loves you."

Along a motel corridor, a long-haired, teen-age boy stood outside an open doorway, gently debating a point with an older woman, possibly his mother.

Finally, he concluded, "I'll pray hard about it," and took off down the hall, humming.

The cocktail lounge of an inn was crowded in the evening with Catholic Pentecostals, sipping beer and bourbon, talking animatedly about the presence of God among them, and occasionally joining in song.

"The spirit is a blowing on a world reborn."

DEATH NOTICES

The Rev. John Thornberry

The Rev. John H. Thornberry, 70, 2336 West Second Street Terrace, a leading organizer of the Sedalia Meals on Wheels program, died at 2:50 a.m. Friday at Bothwell Hospital.

He was born March 5, 1903, at St. Joseph, son of the late Frank and Cora Haffinger Thornberry. On Dec. 20, 1929, he married Millie S. Wallace in Kansas City, and she survives, of the home.

Mr. Thornberry graduated from William Jewell College with a BA degree and from the Baptist Theological Seminary with a BD degree. He entered the United Methodist Church ministry in 1933 in the Kansas West Conference in Beloit, Kan.

While with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers during World War II in the Pacific Theater, he served as chaplain for that group. He retired with the rank of lieutenant colonel and then served several Methodist churches in the Kansas East Conference.

He was active in the Missouri West Conference for the last 14 years, serving in Maitland and the Gravois Mills Ozark Chapel. In 1969 he retired from the Methodist ministry, serving as visitation minister at First Methodist Church at the time of his death.

While in Sedalia, he also served the Black Oak and Pleasant Hill United Methodist Churches. He was an active member of the Sedalia Lions Club and a past-president of the Gravois Mills Lions Club.

He was a member of the VFW in Gravois Mills and was on the board of directors of the American Association of Retired Persons.

Surviving besides his wife are two sons, John W. Thornberry, Joplin; Phillip Thornberry, Kansas City; two daughters, Mrs. Carol Schmalhausen, St. Louis; Mrs. Phyllis Keller, Topeka, Kan.; one brother, Frank Thornberry, Houston, Tex.; one sister, Mrs. Grace Wright, St. Joseph; and four grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 3 p.m. Sunday at the First United Methodist Church with the Rev. Denis Craft and the Rev. Ed Neimeyer officiating.

Music will be provided by the church choir, accompanied by Mrs. Rosalie DeLozier at the organ.

Pallbearers will be Bill Rader, Vernon Rodick, Frank Hanigan, P. A. Sillers, Henry Sutton and Henry Jones.

Graveside services will be held at 1 p.m. Monday at a Waterville, Kan., cemetery.

The family will receive friends at the McLaughlin Funeral Home from 7 to 9 p.m. Sunday.

Mrs. Lela Frances Rehmer

Mrs. Lela Frances Rehmer, 59, 3401 East Broadway, died at 12:15 p.m. Friday at Bothwell Hospital.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete. The body is at the Ewing Funeral Home.

David Linwood Wilson

David Linwood Wilson, 79, 1403 East Third, died at Bothwell Hospital at 10 p.m. Thursday. He had been a patient at the hospital for the past 12 days.

He was born at Sedalia, Jan. 22, 1894, son of the late George and Lydia Huff Wilson. He married Miss Delberta Wheeler at Sedalia in 1914. She died Sept. 29, 1972.

Mr. Wilson lived all of his life in Sedalia. At the time of his retirement he had been employed by the Missouri-Pacific Railroad for 40 years, 34 of them as an engineer.

He is survived by three sons, Forrest Wilson, 901 South Monticello; David Wilson, 1403 East Third; Paul Wilson, Independence; one daughter, Mrs. Louise Manns, Excelsior Springs; one sister, Mrs. Edith Sisk, St. Louis; 14 grandchildren and 11 great grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at the Ewing Funeral Home at 1 p.m. Monday. The Rev. Lee W. Rowden, pastor of the Pentecostal Church of God, will officiate.

Burial will be in the Crown Hill Cemetery.

The body is at the funeral home.

Miss Luenda E. Bauer

VERSAILLES — Funeral services for Miss Luenda Elizabeth Bauer, 70, who died Tuesday, will be held at 1:30 p.m. Saturday at Christ Lutheran Church, Stover, with the Rev. Donald Metzger officiating.

Burial will be in the Stover Cemetery.

Revamp Measure Approved

BULLETIN

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A bill to set a uniform property tax assessment at 33 1-3 per cent throughout the state received 29-11 approval in the Missouri Senate today.

The bill goes back to the House, which recommended a 30 per cent assessment and which had excluded St. Louis City, which has an assessment of 37-40 per cent.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The joint House-Senate Conference Committee on Reorganization approved a bill Thursday night reorganizing the executive branch of state government into 13 new departments and the Office of Administration.

Reps. Harold Volkmer, D-Hannibal, and Robert Snyder, R-Kirkwood, said they will oppose it because the bill does not accomplish the job authorized by the voters in August.

The bill now goes back to the Senate and House floors.

The central point of dispute is the Senate's victory of advice and consent over department directors as well as several division heads below them. Snyder said advice and consent "is the rape of these departments as far as management is concerned."

Gov. Christopher S. Bond, who opposes several points in the bill, said he will take a "hard look" before making his decision to approve or veto the bill if it passes both houses.

A joint conference committee failed Thursday night to agree on tax relief for the elderly, another constitutional amendment approved by the voters last fall.

Another meeting was scheduled for this afternoon.

The hangup was how much rent would be included in a formula for figuring income tax rebates.

The Senate wants 15 per cent of the year's annual rent and the House members stuck to 25 per cent.

There also is a difference on the property tax formula, but conferees appeared close to an agreement on the House version.

Both versions would make the bill apply to persons 65 or over earning less than $7,500 a year. The original House bill had a $10,000 limit.

A household with an income of $7,000 and a property tax of $400 would get $80 knocked off the state income tax in the House version and $100 in the Senate version.

With an annual income of $7,000 and an annual rent total of $1,875, a household would receive a $94 income tax rebate under the House version and $100 under the Senate version.

The House formula provides more income tax credits than the Senate for renters with incomes under $5,000.

Estimates of the loss of income tax revenue to the state run from $14 million to $22 million a year, depending on the rent percentage used.

In other action Thursday, a bill setting up an overseas trade office to promote Missouri products received Senate approval but was returned to the House with an amendment allowing only one office to be established. The location has not been determined, but Brussels or Tokyo have been suggested. Such an office is expected to cost the state $48,000 a year.

Cleared by the Senate for the governor's signature was a bill making it a misdemeanor to alter speedometers on cars.

Amended and returned to the House was a bill removing the $1 per day limit on wages of state prison inmates.

The House passed four Senate bills designed to bring Missouri laws into compliance with new federal regulations for public assistance.

Gas Station Robbery Results In Charges

A Kansas City man was apprehended by Highway Patrol officers at the MFA service station at Marshall Junction Thursday afternoon shortly after he allegedly robbed the Star Service Station, Broadway and Engineer.

Held at the Saline County jail overnight Thursday was Joseph Wiley, Pettis County sheriff's officers were to have returned Wiley to Sedalia Friday.

Formal charges of stealing more than $50 were filed in Pettis County Magistrate Court Thursday afternoon.

At 12:33 p.m. Thursday, James Woolridge, manager of the service station, reported to police that $405 in cash was taken from the station's cash register.

According to police, the theft apparently occurred while Woolridge was checking the oil in Wiley's car. While this was happening, Wiley appeared to use the phone inside the station. After checking the oil in the car, it was reported, Wiley drove away in a 1964 Chevrolet, Woolridge told officers.

When the station manager went inside the station he found the register had been forced open and the money removed.

Change of Venue Sought By Three

Change of venue petitions were filed in Pettis County Circuit Court Friday by three Independence teenagers charged with two counts of armed robbery.

The three were bound over for trial to Circuit Court Thursday morning after waiving preliminary hearings in Magistrate Court. They are Lloyd C. Young, 19; Michael W. Kelley, 18; and John W. Vannatta, 18.

The attorney for the three, Jack Gant, Kansas City, alleged the three cannot receive a fair trial in Pettis County.

The youths are charged with the robbery of Leonard's 66 Service Station on South Highway 65 and the Hudson Oil Co. on North Highway 65.

All three remain in the Pettis County jail in lieu of $7,000 bond each.

Woman Is Injured In Auto Accident

Mrs. Anita Jording, 53, 2018 Fairview Court, suffered a cut on the right wrist and numerous bruises on the right side of her body in a two-car accident Thursday afternoon at the intersection of Broadway and Limit.

Mrs. Jording was a passenger in a car driven west on Broadway by Bernita Jean Jording, 22, also of 2018 Fairview Court. Police said the accident occurred when the Jording woman's 1962 Chevrolet sedan collided with a 1969 Ford truck driven East on Broadway by Gilbert Fethke, 32, 2400 Woodland.

According to police reports, the Jording truck and was struck on the right door.

No citation was issued in connection with the incident.

Assault Charges Face Sedalia Man

Curtis Poort, 44, Happy Acres Mobile Park, was formally charged in Pettis County Magistrate Court Thursday with assault with intent to do great bodily harm.

Poort's preliminary hearing was set for Wednesday. He is free on $2,500 bond.

Poort is charged with firing several shots at his wife, Vera, with a .22 caliber pistol during a reported argument. Mrs. Poort was not injured, authorities said.

He was arrested by Pettis County Sheriff Emmett Fairfax and Highway Patrol Trooper Joe Dayringer about 6:15 p.m. Wednesday after an unidentified caller reported he heard screams and gun shots from a trailer at the trailer court.

Earlier in the day, police received a report of two broken plate glass windows at the home of E.E. Shaw, 1019 E. Broadway. Shaw told police a car passed his home and someone shot the storm windows with a bb gun. They were valued at $60.

Check Case Bound For Higher Court

Jeffery R. Smith, Sunrise Beach, was bound over for trial to Pettis County Circuit Court after a preliminary hearing Thursday afternoon in Magistrate Court.

Smith is charged with issuing an insufficient funds check of $2,695 on April 24 to Pat O'Connor-Buick-GMC Inc., 1300 South Limit.

He is free on $3,500 bond.

New Mail Route Is Made Up of Three Existing Earlier

Those Pettis County residents living at locations formerly designated as rural mailing routes 1, 2 and 3 will have a new address, Route 6, beginning Saturday, Sedalia Postmaster Maurice Hogan has announced.

The consolidation of certain locations on the three routes south and southeast of the city into the new single route was necessitated by the expanding population of the area, Hogan explained.

Hogan said notices of the change have been sent to all affected residents. Although the new route designation may force some persons to transfer their mailboxes to the opposite side of the road, Hogan said, "we have sincerely tried to minimize any inconvenience."

Hogan indicated an additional employee has been hired to serve the route.

Senate Farm Bill Vote Expected Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate is expected today to approve a comprehensive farm bill which critics say could be the most expensive ever and supporters claim offers a fair shake to farmers and consumers alike.

A final vote was scheduled following debate on numerous amendments, including one by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., for further liberalizing foods stamp benefits.

The bill, called the Agriculture and Consumer Protection Act of 1973, would extend federal farm crop programs through 1978.

Food stamps, the Food for Peace aid program, rural development and other features also are included.

At the heart of the bill is a controversial "target price" concept for cotton, wheat and feed grain. Government subsidies, if any, would depend on how cash markets shape up over the next five years.

Senate farm leaders say the bill will enable consumers and farmers to share the financial responsibility for ensuring an ample supply of food and fiber.

If, for example, the cash market price of wheat next year averages more over a specific period than the target of $2.28 per bushel, then farmers would get no government payments.

But if the market price for wheat drops below the target, then producers would get government payments to make up the difference.

Similar targets would be set up for cotton and feed grain, primarily corn. The targets for 1974, including wheat at $2.28 per bushel; corn $1.53; and cotton 43 cents per pound, approximately reflect recent market prices.

Probation Is Set In Bad Check Case

Terry W. Sparks, 24, Stanberry, was sentenced to a year in the Pettis County jail and then placed on two years probation after he pleaded guilty to a no funds check charge Thursday afternoon in Pettis County Circuit Court.

Sparks was charged with issuing a bogus check Nov. 18 for $77.75 in merchandise at Cash Hardware, 106 West Main.

Sparks turned himself in to Pettis County sheriff's officers Dec. 27. Officials said Sparks was a resident of Marshall at the time of his arrest.

'Gangland' Slaying In New Jersey

CHERRY HILL, N.J. (AP) — Major B. Coxson, a flamboyant ex-convict defeated recently in Camden's mayoral race, was slain "gangland style" today in the bedroom of his mansion here, police said.

Coxson last month lost a bid to become Camden's first black mayor.

Wounded in the pre-dawn shooting was a woman identified as Lois Luby, 35, her daughter, Lita, 15, and her son, Toro, 13. A second son of Mrs. Luby, Lex, escaped unharmed.

Police originally identified Mrs. Luby, who is from Ambler, Pa., as Coxson's wife. They said later she had been living with him several years and she and the two sons had adopted Coxson's last name.

The Cherry Hill Medical Center said the mother and daughter were in serious condition. The son's condition was listed as fair.

Police said an alarm was out for four black men, all believed armed, who entered the $150,000 Coxson home about 4 a.m. EDT.

Police said Coxson's body, clad in pajamas, was found in a kneeling position with his head resting on a bed. His hands and feet were bound with neckties and he was gagged.

Police said the four gunmen apparently were admitted to the house by Coxson after they knocked the horn of their black Cadillac several times.

Public Safety Director Thomas O'Rourke said there was some conversation between Coxson and the men inside the house and then the entire family was bound hand-and-foot and gagged with neckties.

O'Rourke said Mrs. Coxson was found in the same bedroom as her husband but had "made some effort to go to the bathroom and then to reach the telephone."

Lita was found in her bedroom and Toro was found in the living room.

Lex, 13, the other son, was also tied and gagged but managed to wriggle out a sliding bedroom window and make his way to the home of a neighbor who notified police.

O'Rourke said three of the assailants were described as being about 31 and that the fourth man was about 38. The director said two of the men carried chrome-plated revolvers of unknown caliber.

Camden County Coroner Dr. Tom Daley said Coxson died of one gunshot wound, probably fired at close range, to the back of the head.

The other victims also were bound, police said. Medical authorities said the wife and daughter were shot "more than once," but did not elaborate.

Police said the wounded son told them he heard a "scream in the night" coming from his father's bedroom. The boy also told of being ordered by the gunmen to lie on the floor.

Coxson, 43, a flamboyant rags-to-riches businessman who made most of his money in the automobile business, lost a bid to become Camden's first black mayor in the May 8 Democratic mayoral race.

He rented a ramshackle house in Camden to give himself a local address for the election, but had a mansion in Cherry Hill.

At one time he had served two months in the federal penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa., for failure to repay bank loans on cars that he bought and sold.

The son of a Uniontown, Pa., coal miner, Coxson grew up in Philadelphia.

The condition of Coxson's wife, Lois, and two children, Lita, 14, and Toro, was not immediately known.

Coxson was a friend of former heavyweight boxing champion Muhammad Ali and reputed Cosa Nostra boss Angelo Bruno.

Last month, he finished a distant second in Camden's Democratic mayoral primary, losing to Angelo J. Errichetti.

Ann Landers

She Needs To Find Reason for Eating

Dear Ann Landers: Last Valentine's Day I came very close to asking my wife for a divorce. Why? Because she has been grossly overweight for the past eight years and I am sick of it. She goes for every diet that comes along, takes pills and insists she is "trying." She is "trying" all right — everything and anything but cutting down on her eating. She has something in her mouth all day long.

30s, although she looks older. I still have all my hair and can get into my wedding trousers, in case you are wondering. Although I'm no Burt Reynolds I keep getting "come-hither" looks from some very cute chicks in the office. To my wife's credit, we have good kids and she's a better-than-average cook. The house looks O.K. and I have no other complaints except her weight.

give in to her taste-buds than please her husband lets the world know he is not very important to her. This hurts. Do I have a right or not? — Leaving It Up To You

Dear Leaving: A right to what? Start kanoodlin' around with one of those cute chicks in the office? Sounds like this is what you're after.

I am not making excuses for your wife, but plenty of husbands love their fat wives and plenty more cheat on thin ones, so don't delude yourself.

I hope, for her sake, that your wife will get some counseling and find out why she has to have something in her mouth all day long. It could be the beginning of a better life for both of you.

Dear Ann Landers: Recently someone asked what to do about a former neighbor who drinks, calls her on the phone, and talks and talks. Well, I think I'm the neighbor who drinks, so please hear me out.

I know I make a pest of myself but sometimes I get so lonesome I can't stand it. But I do have my pride — drunk or sober.

Your suggestion that "Former Neighbor" get an unlisted number is not practical. Celebrities may find it convenient to be incommunicado, but the average person wants to be reached. How much better to tell the drunk (when she is sober) exactly how you feel about the calls. I can all but guarantee that the embarrassment will be so great that even if she is thoroughly sloshed she will remember and there will be no more calls. Sign me — Been There And Trying To Get Back

Dear B.T. And Trying: Not all drunks behave the same way. Some become totally uninhibited — couldn't care less if they bother people. Others don't remember anything, and so on. But I'm sure your suggestion would work for some. (P.S. Hang in there, honey. Others have made it back and you can, too.)

Dear Ann Landers: You have stated repeatedly that you are against the legalization of marijuana. Why? Alcohol is more damaging than pot — and it's legal. This is ridiculous. Please clarify. — Lincoln, Neb.

Dear Line: (1) No one knows for sure how damaging pot is over the long haul. But it appears from the studies now emerging that pot is a lot more destructive than was originally thought. Many authorities are reversing their positions.

(2) Booze is here to stay. Prohibition was a failure. We now have 9,000,000 alcoholics in the U.S. and I would not care to add another 6,000,000 pot heads who are spaced out on grass. c. 1973 Field Enterprises, Inc.

Vitamin E, Leg Cramps Discussed

Dear Dr. Lamb — Dr. Robert E. Olson, Professor at St. Louis University, told newsmen at a recent session of the American Heart Association that the touted benefits of vitamin E are mostly a myth. He did state, however, that large doses of vitamin E benefited an ailment in which the circulation through the arteries to the legs is impaired, making walking difficult and painful.

Having developed this condition, Dr. Olson's opinion is of more than passing interest to me and quite likely others who are thus afflicted.

I am sure a column devoted in part to the benefits of vitamin E, if any, would be of general interest.

Dear Reader — Dr. Olson did state that vitamin E was useful in treating leg cramps caused by inadequate circulation to the leg muscles because of atherosclerosis (fatty blockage of the arteries). Many people also believe vitamin E is useful in leg cramps in general. How it works is not known.

If a person has leg cramps from fatty blockage of his arteries to the legs, however, he should first have a complete medical examination. In some instances, the blockage is localized and vascular surgeons can put an arterial graft of synthetic material around the localized block or replace the blocked artery. By detouring blood around the diseased arteries, normal circulation to the leg can sometimes be restored. This operation is not applicable to all people. If a person has extensive disease in the arteries of the legs, extending all the way down to the foot, it may be impossible to detour the blocked area.

In recognizing some of the things that vitamin E does not do, I think that it is equally important to note what some of these applications are. Its use in leg cramps caused by inadequate circulation appears to have some merit.

Dear Dr. Lamb — We have had discussions with various friends about smoking in one's bedroom before retiring. Most of my friends agree that it is a bad habit. There are some who disagree, usually in a heated manner. Would you kindly write one of your articles on this subject? I would very much appreciate it.

Dear Reader — You probably know from reading my column that I wouldn't recommend smoking anywhere, in or out of the bedroom. Smoking in any closed room tends to build up the carbon monoxide level. If there's only one smoker and the room is fairly large the level might not be too high but if you're talking about a small room with poor ventilation and a large number of smokers then it can exceed the levels normally accepted as safe by industry.

I doubt that one smoker in the bedroom is going to build up that high a level, but even so, the amount of smoke irritants that can develop in a room are rather disagreeable to the non-smoker. There is always the possibility of falling asleep while smoking and innumerable reasons why a person shouldn't smoke, which I've discussed before. Add to this the safety problem of possible fires in the bedroom and it doesn't seem very wise.

Most people who vehemently defend such a practice are hooked on the habit. Also, they usually have no appreciation for how much trouble it causes the non-smoker. If they do, they certainly are relatively insensitive to anybody else's problems. Come to think of it, I'm having difficulty thinking of one single reason why a person should smoke in the bedroom or why a person should smoke outside the bedroom either.

Laird Says Nixon Needs Protection From Impulses

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new man in the White House is said to believe that Richard Nixon at times has to be "protected from his own impulses" and told no even though he "reacts strongly."

This is the view of Melvin R. Laird, a deceptively affable politician with a tough sense of realism, who is now in the delicate position of practicing what he, on occasion, has preached.

Laird came out of retirement Wednesday to accept appointment as counselor to the President for domestic affairs, with Cabinet rank. As such, he becomes the domestic Henry A. Kissinger and replaces John D. Ehrlichman, a casualty of Watergate.

He now has a chance to do what he has said privately that Ehrlichman and others failed to do: say no to the President of the United States.

A few weeks before his appointment, sources close to Laird made known his view of the "White House mentality" that may have led to Watergate. He was said to feel that Nixon's top aides were too inexperienced to "protect the President from his own impulses."

"They got so carried away," Laird was quoted as saying. "They could easily have misinterpreted the President in their zeal and showed incredibly bad judgment in carrying out what they thought were his desires."

These sources said that Laird felt the President was solid and deliberate in his conduct of foreign affairs but sometimes impulsive on domestic matters.

As secretary of defense, these sources said, Laird several times was ordered by the President to fire someone, and didn't.

"In each case, the secretary thought the President was wrong and just sat it out, doing nothing about the firing, until the matter blew over."

On another occasion, these sources said, Laird was "told by the White House" to give the ailing Penn Central railroad a direct $300-million loan using the Defense Production Act as a "subterfuge." Laird refused and said the matter should be taken to Congress.

"Do you mean," a top White House assistant asked the secretary of defense, "that you are refusing to carry out a direct order of the President of the United States?"

"Yes."

Production Halt

The Pentagon Wednesday unexpectedly announced that production of the controversial F111 jetfighter-bomber will be halted late this year. The plane is still flying missions over Cambodia. A Defense

Department spokesman said the decision was made because "the need for additional F111s is now less demanding than a number of other critical Department of Defense requirements."

Factors Indicate Higher Food, Meat Prices Ahead

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Lower production because of bad weather, the fuel crisis, increased foreign demand, the perennial boxcar shortage, infestations of insects—all these factors point to fewer crops and higher food and meat prices ahead.

Both agricultural officials and farmers agree the price of feed accounts for 75 per cent of the cost of producing meat, milk and eggs.

Kansas and Oklahoma agriculturists predict a bumper wheat crop—despite weather that has delayed the ripening of grain and turbulent weather that has destroyed some of the crop.

Corn planting in Kansas is only 87 per cent complete, compared with 92 per cent normally; sorghum is 28 per cent complete compared with a 43 per cent average, and soybean planting is 18 per cent complete.

In Missouri, the crop reporting service says corn is two-thirds planted, cotton three-fourths planted, alfalfa nearing the halfway point and one-fourth the wheat crop is turning.

The Saline County director of the Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service, Joseph Thompson of Marshall, Mo., said about 75 per cent of the corn was planted upland from Marshall, but about 20,000 acres of farmland along the Missouri River in his area cannot be planted because of wet fields. Thompson said bottomland could be planted in soybeans or milo if weather and water permits.

Virgil Payne, Jasper County, Mo., ASCS director, said planting of corn is 100 per cent complete, although smaller in acreage than a year ago. He said wet weather last fall and this spring had a heavy effect on the crops.

East and West were good players and West had no problem about what to do next. He played his king of clubs and declarer was down one.

This would have cost an important overtrick if South held the ace and jack of clubs, but West knew that South could not hold both of them.

How did he know this? Wouldn't East lead his fourth best automatically?

Not on your tinfoil! East would have led his highest club if he didn't hold an honor so as to make sure that his partner would know the situation.

Any time you give your partner a chance to make a mistake he may make it. The better the player, the less chance that it will happen, but we have seen the best players in the world go wrong time and time again.

South won the diamond in his hand. He saw eight top tricks and that the best way to go after more was to take two heart finessees.

His eight of hearts lead lost to East's queen and the deuce of clubs was led back. South played the three and West was in with the queen.

This hand is taken from the finals of a regional open.

All Smiles

Jacob Jonker, 40, manages a smile at Key West, Fla., despite the problems he has encountered in trying to reach his native Holland. Jonker's 35-foot sloop had to be rescued by the coast guard after it drifted for days, his water and food about gone. He is now hoping to return to sea if he can get his Dutch currency exchanged so he can buy provisions. His reason for returning to Holland is that his father died and his 75-year-old mother is left alone. (UPI)

West Point Cadet Endured 'Silence'

WEST HEMPSTEAD, N.Y. (AP) — A young Army officer who endured 19 months of "silence" at West Point said Friday that another cadet is undergoing the same treatment at the academy.

James J. Pelosi, who received his commission Wednesday, said in an interview at his home that a member of West Point's class of 1974 was censured to silence nearly one year ago.

Pelosi declined to identify the cadet or say why the silence was imposed on him. He said the cadet had asked his advice during the past year but that the pair had not been drawn close together by their mutual adversity.

Pelosi held the highest peer rating in his 100-man company when he was convicted in November 1971 by the senior Honor Committee of completing an answer on a quiz after the examiner had given the order to stop.

He denied the charge, backed his claim with witnesses and an officer board was convened. The case later was dismissed by Lt. Gen. William A. Knowlton, the West Point superintendent, after it was learned that a high-ranking officer had urged board members to "expedite" their deliberations.

But the trial was not over for Pelosi, then 20.

Supported by a cadet referendum, the Honor Committee moved to impose "silence" on Pelosi, a rarely used penalty of total social ostracism.

For most of the next 19 months, Pelosi roomed alone and ate by himself at a 10-man table in the cadet mess hall. Almost none of the 3,800 cadets talked to him except on official business.

Nationwide publicity about his plight in the two days since his graduation has brought telegrams of congratulations from Texas, Florida and California and more than 30 telephone calls.

"People consider it a victory for me to have graduated," Pelosi said. "I guess they were glad I stuck with it." Before reporting in August to his next duty station, Ft. Benning, Ga., Pelosi will spend a month touring Europe with his parents.

His father, James V. Pelosi, said that in the first few months of the silence his 5-foot-11 son lost 26 pounds and was treated for nervous exhaustion at the academy's medical department.

More States Are Asked To Repay Title I Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a continuing crackdown on Title I spending, the government is asking five more states to repay a total of $783,562 allegedly misspent under the massive federal program for educationally disadvantaged children.

The U.S. Office of Education said it has initiated proceedings to recover $130,723 from Kansas; $71,740 from Charlotte-Mecklenburg, N.C.; $259,957 from Hawaii; $177,083 from New Mexico, and $143,059 from Florida.

They are accused of using funds from Title I of the 1965 Elementary and Secondary Education Act as general aid rather than targeting it to poor and migrant pupils who traditionally lag in reading and writing skills.

Since September 1971, federal action has been taken against 22 states and smaller jurisdictions to recover $22.1 million of the nearly $10 billion distributed.

Prosecutor Cox's first step was a wrong one

DETROIT — Watergate special prosecutor Archibald Cox apparently suffers from grand delusions about the amount of confidence the public has in him and his investigative group.

Rowan

If he perceived the true magnitude of doubt and suspicion which the American people are harboring, he would not have made an attempt to stall the Senate Watergate hearings his first major public act.

You talk to people here and elsewhere around the country and you know it would be folly to silence the Congress and declare a moratorium on disclosures in the press until Cox has had a few months to show what he can do about ferreting out and convicting all those guilty of crimes.

The administration's cover-up of the most sinister political crimes in the nation's history has been too far-reaching, too devious, too arrogantly unrelenting, for us to put our total faith in any investigation in any way controlled by the administration.

Greater faith and trust in the Cox operation is not inspired when we note that presidential aide J. Fred Buzhardt can call him up and chew him out, and tell him what kind of statements the President doesn't want to see coming out of the Justice Department anymore. That is a galling reminder that, for all his so-called independence, Cox still works for Mr. Nixon, who is rated somewhat ahead of the butler as a suspect in the Watergate mess.

Nor does it inspire people to "leave everything to Mr. Cox" when we see him claiming access to all manner of White House documents even as the White House is trying to make it perfectly clear that there are some records Mr. Nixon doesn't intend to let Mr. Cox or anyone else see.

So it is no attack on Mr. Cox's personal integrity or his good intentions as to whether his probe will go appreciably further than the "full court press" the FBI supposedly launched (even as the acting FBI director was destroying vital evidence), or that phony Justice Department investigation which the administration touted as "the greatest since the Kennedy assassination."

But it is important to understand why the Senate hearings must continue — even if we were certain that Cox will drape prison stripes around everyone guilty of criminal involvement in Watergate. Those Senate hearings ultimately will reach far beyond the issue of criminal guilt and perhaps answer this fundamental question: was the corruption, the espionage, the sabotage so widespread in 1972 that the American people were deprived of a legitimate presidential election?

Millions of Americans clearly don't want to know if President Nixon was personally aware of Watergate crimes and participated in the cover-up. They say it would be bad for the country to go through a wrenching struggle over impeachment.

It is equally clear millions of Americans don't want to much evidence laid on the record that they have to doubt the validity of the entire primary, nomination and election processes. They don't want to have to wrestle with the question of what the country does once it arrives at such a sad conclusion.

Then, those Senate hearings are going to say something else to the American people which we aren't likely to get from Mr. Cox. Those hearings just might make it clear to all but the blindest Americans how rapidly we were rushing into a Gestapo-like dictatorship.

The front-page news here is about alleged illegal spying by the government on the so-called "Detroit 15," a group of Weatherman radicals accused of plotting a nationwide campaign of terrorist bombings. New York attorney Gerald Lefcourt has told federal judge Damon Keith that Lefcourt's home and office were broken into five times in 1970 and 1971 and the only thing disturbed were the files on one of the defendants. The implication is that the White House "Special Investigations Unit" committed those burglaries. Judge Keith has demanded that the Justice Department tell him everything about illegal wiretaps, burglaries and other intrusions on the part of government.

This Detroit case is only a fragment of what will be brought to light before the hearings are over.

Maybe people would rather watch soap operas than hear the unsavory truth. But if this generation lets freedom wither and die, future generations can know that at least the Senate did what it had to do to ensure that the people had a chance to save the situation.

Welcome home, alumni

By DOUG KNEIBERT

Last weekend I drove down to Nashville, Tenn., for the 15th class reunion at my old alma mater, Vanderbilt University. It's rather difficult to sort out an alumni weekend with any degree of order, so let's just ramble a bit.

The campus, like all campuses, has changed. To the south they've built some magnificent science buildings and medical school-hospital facilities. There's also a new divinity school, chapel and law schools.

As a whole, the campus is still a thing of beauty. Magnolias and other trees of all descriptions abound, and ivy creeps up the red brick; it's the kind of campus one thinks of when he thinks of college. Here is a rule of thumb, I think: all college buildings should be of brick with lots of ivy. Forget these new white concrete jobs that are popping up today.

The core campus has much of the same look. Central Hall, where I wandered through the mazes of algebra and trigonometry, still stands in all its Victorian dignity. Old Furman, in whose tiered lecture hall Dr. Rummell—the Desert Fox—expounded on the wondrous world of chemistry, has been jazzed up with video and audio gear, where the alums now get The Pitch.

Fraternity row, sadly enough, is only a shadow of its former glory. For reasons that defy me, the Beta house has been torn down and replaced by something more suited to some split-level suburban development. The former house was a dignified old two-story on the style of a Southern mansion, well-suited to sun bathing on the balcony and containing a wealth of rooms and cubbyholes in which large numbers of your brothers could be wedged into one happy family of jolly good fellows. Nowadays each house is limited to six people.

Two creatures, presumably Betas, emerged into the sunlight from the house as we walked past; they had the appearance of having fallen out of a tree. Now when I was a Beta we often ACTED like we had fallen out of trees, but tried not to LOOK that way.

Which brings me to the matter of sartorial appearance. It was still common to wear a coat and tie to class my first couple of years at Vandy. Today to dress for class means to wear shoes. Whether V. U. will survive this during its second hundred years remains to be seen.

At the Friday night party I enjoyed a certain advantage by virtue of my beard, which permitted me to lay back and study faces before plunging in. It was amazing how everyone else had changed.

There was John Kirk, who roomed next door to me as a freshman, now a New York adman. To all appearances John is still insane, which I thought he would overcome once he left the Sigma Nu's behind.

And Dick Palmer, plump and balding, now an investment banker in Atlanta. I wondered if Dick's wife knows about the night... but why ruin a good party?

And what about Hal Dawson? Who would suspect that this staid Chicago stockbroker was arrested one warm spring night for driving a motorcycle through the Chancellor's shrubbery?

I had the misfortune of sharing a four-man house with Dawson my senior year. We drove around Saturday, looking for some of the old haunts. There was the old house on West End Circle, which sheltered me for two years. Would not its very timbers groan were I to walk in today? The other house on Dixie Place had been leveled for a parking lot, which probably was not too difficult a task, considering what we did to it. The Celtic Club, where Papa John Gordy's Dixieland band held forth, has vanished from the face of the earth, supplanted by a new highway.

For old times sake we had a beer at Ireland's. The Phi Delta house next door has been razed, and Ireland's itself is now a dimly-lit, carpeted affair with all the booths taken out. A woman in her fifties in a pants suit was dancing by herself to the jukebox. We left quickly.

The Chancellor spoke at the alumni luncheon about the responsibilities of a university. The blue blazer of the president of the Alumni Association was passed on, and we all sang the old school song:

Cherished by thy sons forever, memories sweet shall throng round our hearts, O alma mater, as we sing our song...

This year's 50-year class—that of 1923—turned out in surprising numbers, many wearing the school tie. It struck me that in 2008 my own class would have its 50th reunion.

An astounding thought to someone who has always thought of himself as the eternal sophomore.

Clarence M. Kelley is good FBI choice

Chief Clarence M. Kelley of the Kansas City police department has all the appearances of an excellent nominee for director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Coming to Kansas City in 1961, Kelley took over a police department besmirched by corruption, and developed it into a first-rate law enforcement organization. He has been especially effective in bringing modern scientific methods to bear in the fight against crime.

Since 1969, crime has been reduced 25 per cent in Kansas City, and Kelley's supporters say he deserves most of the credit for this.

Assuming that Kelley is confirmed by the Senate, and we see no reason at this point why he shouldn't, he will find himself at the helm of one of the most prestigious law enforcement organizations in the world, the FBI. And at this point in time, the FBI is badly in need of vigorous leadership.

While it was J. Edgar Hoover who rescued the FBI from political hacks and built its reputation, Hoover was not without faults. There is evidence that in his latter years the director abused some of his powers as the FBI's one-man ruler.

Yet Hoover kept the FBI above partisan politics, an area where it now finds itself on the defensive as a result of the Watergate investigation. Because of recent troubles, several senior FBI officials have resigned or retired, and morale is said to be suffering.

The nomination of Clarence Kelley, however, is cause to believe that whatever is wrong inside the FBI — which this country still needs badly — will be put right, once he has a chance to exert the talents that built him such a high reputation in Kansas City.

Washington sat pat while Africans slain

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Far from the tumult of the American political campaign, in the African state of Burundi, the massacre of a quarter million people was reaching full horror a year ago.

From early May through August, the tall statuesque Tutsi nobility undertook the systematic slaughtering of their ethnic rivals, the Hutus. The Tutsis literally went crazy with revenge over the attempted Hutu coup. When ammunition ran short, the Tutsis used sledgehammers and even bulldozers to massacre the Hutus.

Some Hutus managed to flee the country but most were not so fortunate. Men, women and children were murdered at a rate of more than a thousand a day.

In Washington, meanwhile, both the White House and the State Department were aware of the enormity of the carnage, but made no public protest. Instead, official Washington chose "quiet diplomatic pressure" which failed utterly to alleviate the tragedy.

Now, a year later, a special task force, funded by the prestigious Carnegie Endowment, has reconstructed the sad tale of U. S. inaction in the face of mass genocide. Project director Roger Morris, a former aide to Henry Kissinger on African affairs, describes the U. S. policy as "largely a record of indifference, inertia and irresponsibility."

The unpublished study singles out two State Department officials — Assistant Secretary David Newsom and Central African Affairs Director Herman Cohen — as the policymakers who "made the crucial decisions."

Here are its major charges against the two officials:

✓ The policy makers "rejected out of hand" a proposal to place an embargo on American imports of Burundian coffee, even though some sanction of Burundian coffee could have been used as a strong bargaining tool. U. S. coffee purchases account for 80 per cent of Burundi's export earnings. "The coffee proposal never received a serious hearing," the report charges. The proposal, in fact, was not even discussed informally with Folgers Coffee, the main purchaser of Burundian coffee. The Nixon administration, however, would "have enjoyed ready access" to Folgers "had it tried," says the report. For former top White House aide Bryce Harlow was then in charge of government affairs for Proctor and Gamble, the parent company of Folgers.

✓ The policymakers ignored their own legal adviser for African affairs, Keith Huffman, who advised stronger action. In mid-August, Huffman put his argument in writing in an internal memo. "While inaction in the face of a human rights crisis might be rationalized on the grounds of political expediency, such experience cannot justify U. S. action."

✓ The policy makers "repeatedly misled Congress." As one example, the Carnegie study notes that Sen. Ted Kennedy, D-Mass., was assured in mid-June that "the civil strife had ended." A week later, from Burundi, U. S. Charge d'Affaires Michael Hoyt described the killings as "selective genocide." And the killings continued unabated through August.

✓ The policymakers, overly cynical, knew from the start their "quiet diplomacy" had "little chance of relieving the tragedy." Adds the report: "Though that failure soon became obvious, policy makers then stood by for nearly four months while the killing went on."

Rather than make the "tough choice" and involve itself, the United States persisted to try to involve the Organization of African Unity, various African heads of state and the United Nations. "None of the efforts to involve the Africans was successful... U. S. officials were not particularly surprised by this failure."

Throughout the summer, U. S. reaction to the killings was described by the State Department officials themselves as "routine."

The one bright spot in the U. S. handling of the Burundi killings occurred in early May when Ambassador Thomas Melady broke through red tape and got $100,000 worth of emergency aid for the Hutu victims.

Melady also arranged a "low-key" letter of protest from the Papal Nuncio. But three weeks later, incredibly, Melady was reassigned to Uganda, another African trouble spot. So, from June until September 1972, at the height of the killings, there was no U. S. ambassador in Burundi.

Footnote: We were unable to reach Assistant Secretary David Newsom for comment, but his subordinate, Herman Cohen, told us that the White House "was very much aware" of State Department policy toward Burundi. "We did what we thought was right," said Cohen. He added that he thought no policy — short of military intervention — could have stopped the killings.

Sewer Wants Way To Treat Fabrics

By POLLY CRAMER
Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY — With four children to outfit I find it more economical to sew our swimsuits myself. Fabric can be bought that has been specially treated for chlorine and is fade-resistant but is quite expensive (about $8 a yard). Many times it cannot be bought in the bright colors and patterns that children enjoy wearing. I wonder if any of the readers know of any way of treating ordinary fabrics like cotton, blends, synthetics and knits so they are more fade-proof and sun-resistant. — NORMA

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with the people who dump garbage all along our highways. We enjoy driving along country roads and like to pull off the road to enjoy a picnic lunch. There is scarcely a spot to stop where there is not a lot of trash. Even the picnic tables in the rest areas are messy and the garbage containers are filled and spilling all over the ground. — RUBY

DEAR POLLY — Janice who wants to use her leftover wallpaper could do several things, depending on the quantity she has. With a sizable amount she could paper one wall by alternating a strip of paper and one of paint. If doing this on a painted wall, first sand the paint that will be covered with paper so the paste will stick. This is attractive on a bedroom wall back of a bed. I also have papered wastebaskets, cleansing tissue boxes and even small chests of drawers so they become a real part of a room's decor. If you find no other use for some of the pieces, they make wonderful drawer liners. — MRS. H. C. R.

DEAR POLLY and Janice — I had a small amount of wallpaper and used it to paper one wall and then painted the other three a color taken from a paper's design. If the pattern allows, she could cut the width of the paper in half and use these strips to make a border around the bathroom and then paint below it. I think half the fun is experimenting. — E. S.

DEAR POLLY — Many of us now wear pantyhose but have lots of pairs of regular hose on hand. I use mine to make knee or ankle-length hose to wear under slacks. Cut the elastic from the wasteband of old pantyhose since it is not as tight as regular plastic and make garters with it. Slip on hose, roll or tuck under the garters and wear wherever they are most comfortable. The biggest advantage is that they can be slipped on and off without removing your slacks. — JOAN (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

FBI Sources Say Kelley Should Bolster Agency

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nomination of Kansas City Police Chief Clarence M. Kelley to be FBI director should bolster the agency's sagging morale and public image, FBI sources say.

Kelley's first obstacle, however, is winning Senate confirmation to succeed J. Edgar Hoover, who headed the FBI for 47 years before his death 13 months ago.

"He's an excellent choice," one long-time agent said of Kelley. "I've heard no objections to him from anyone up and down the line."

Senior agents are said to be pleased with the choice of Kelley, who spent 21 years in the FBI before taking over the Kansas City police in 1961.

A former agent said Kelley's FBI and police experience will be major factor in boosting staff morale, which, sources said, reached its lowest ebb when acting director L. Patrick Gray III resigned under fire April 27.

Gray admitted burning papers recovered from the White House safe of convicted Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt Jr., Sen. Lowell P. Weicker, R-Conn., has said.

William D. Ruckelshaus, who replaced Gray on a temporary basis, said recently that the FBI was undergoing a crisis of confidence. He said the bureau's problems of morale and public image would evaporate "once a good strong man is in place."

Other agents said disclosures of FBI activity in the Watergate scandal hurt the FBI's image.

In Kansas City, Kelley told a news conference Thursday that he wants to restore the FBI's prestige to the level it reached under Hoover. "I've heard some things about the FBI being in an inferior position" compared to the Hoover era, he said.

Clarence M. Kelley

Kelley, who will be 62 in October, will go before the Senate Judiciary Committee June 18 or 19. He is expected to face friendly but intensive interrogation.

The committee is expected to question Kelley thoroughly about his FBI duties and the agency's independence from political influence.

Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W. Va., a Judiciary member who led the fight against Gray's nomination, told a reporter he met Kelley two days ago and was impressed.

The hearings on Gray's nomination dealt largely with the FBI investigation of the Watergate bugging. In Kelley's case, however, they are expected to provide more of a forum for questioning about the agency's operation.

Summer Education Program Will Begin

The Sedalia public school system begins its remedial summer school program at 8:30 a.m. Monday, it was announced by school officials Thursday.

Classes will be held at Hubbard, Jefferson, Washington and Whittier Schools. Parents seeking additional information about the program may call the principals of these schools, or the principal at Sacred Heart School. Transportation will not be provided by the school system, it was reported.

OATS Program Is Discussed by Club

HOUSTONIA — The Older Adults Transportation System was discussed by the Community Betterment Club at its meeting here Monday night, with the objective of determining how many persons would be interested in enrolling in the program.

Plans for an Aug. 4 tractor pull were announced, as was a report that the club's next meeting would include a picnic at Howard Park here.

Two Indicted In Thwarted Bank Robbery

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A federal grand jury has indicted two men on a charge of taking an Amoret, Mo., couple across a state line to force them to open the vault of the Bank of Amoret.

Those indicted are Lewis Woodward Larson, 50, of Minneapolis, Minn., and Albie Melvin Smith, 52, of Kansas City.

They were accused of taking Cecil L. Gaston and his wife, Dorothy, a bank employee, from Amoret to Kansas and then back to Missouri Wednesday evening. They were arrested at 1 a.m. Thursday near Amoret with the Gastons in their car.

Mrs. Gaston told police the men planned to hold them until morning and then force her to open the vault. The men had been told the vault had a time lock and couldn't be opened until morning, police said.

Firm To Give Qualifications To Judges Here

Tom Valentine, president of the Continental Appraisal Co. of Buffalo, N. Y., will discuss with the Pettis County Court Monday his firm's qualifications to perform the task of reappraising the county. Presiding Judge Harry Walsh said Thursday.

The Continental Co. is one of two reappraisal firms being considered by the court for the reassessment job.

The company last week submitted a bid on the project but has not met with the court yet. Walsh said the court will choose between the Continental Co. and the Clemmshaw Co. of Cleveland, Ohio. Continental submitted a bid of $144,500 and Clemmshaw submitted a bid of $149,600.

Another reappraisal company, Hunnicutt and Associates, St. Petersburg, Fla., submitted a bid of $191,000.

The court has indicated it wishes the project to begin July 1.

Secretariat Goes After Triple Crown

NEW YORK (AP) — Secretariat goes after thoroughbred racing's elusive Triple Crown Saturday in the Belmont Stakes, and the success or failure of the exciting Meadow Stable colt might be pinned on the performance of a speed horse called Nightly Dawn.

Trainer Frank "Pancho" Martin put Nightly Dawn into the six-horse Belmont field Thursday as an entrant with Sham and students of racing strategy immediately began to hold court.

Martin's apparent plan is to have Nightly Dawn draw Secretariat into an early speed duel and then have Sham come on to average his second-place finishes to Secretariat in the Kentucky Derby and Preakness.

"It just means another horse for him to get around," was the reaction of Secretariat's trainer, Lucien Laurin, to Martin's move.

Set to join Secretariat and the Sigmond Sommer-owned entry at the 5:38 p.m., EDT, post for the 1½-mile classic at Belmont Park were Arthur Appleton's My Gallant, C.V. Whitney's Pvt. Smiles and Elmdorf's Twice A Prince.

If all six start, each under 126 pounds, the Belmont will be worth $151,200 with $90,720 to the winner.

Television coverage is scheduled for 5-6 p.m. and radio coverage for 5:25-5:45 p.m., EDT, both by CBS.

The early odds had Secretariat a 2-5 favorite to win for the 12th time in 15 career starts and become the ninth Triple Crown winner and first since Citation in 1948.

The Triple Crown champions have been Sir Barton, 1919; Gallant Fox, 1930; Omaha, 1935; War Admiral, 1937; Whirlaway, 1941; Count Fleet, 1943; Assault, 1946 and Citation, 1948.

Six who since 1948 won the Derby and Preakness but failed in the Belmont were Tim Tam, 1958; Carry Back, 1961; Northern Dancer, 1964; Kauai King, 1966; Majestic Prince, 1969, and Canonero II, 1971.

Colbert Sub

Murrell's Homer Slows Cardinals

ST. LOUIS (AP) — "I kind of knew what he was going to throw me," said Ivan Murrell, a San Diego Padres sub. "He's a low ball, sinker pitcher; I'm a low ball hitter."

The hunch of the 28-year-old Padres utility man paid off Thursday night as San Diego rallied to nip the surging St. Louis Cardinals 4-3.

But apparently even more certain of Murrell's ninth-inning heroics, a lead-off homer against reliever Wayne Granger, was Nick Colosi, the game's first base umpire.

"Believe it or not when they brought Granger in the first base umpire looked at me and said 'you're about due for a home run'" said Murrell, who was playing first base in place of ailing Nate Colbert.

"Granger had retired about six in a row at the time, and I told him I had pretty good luck against this guy," Murrell added.

"He said, 'Well, you're about due for a home run.' I said, 'No, I'm not looking for a home run.'"

The quick-swinging, strong Murrell, who hammered a Granger curve into the left field seats, had delivered two previous hits as the Padres rallied from a 3-0 deficit.

His bouncing single up the middle struck teammate Dave Roberts, however, and canceled a budding San Diego rally in the second.

In the sixth, as the Padres rallied to tie, a sharp double scored Fred Kendall to make it 3-2 and brought on Granger in place of Cards starter Reggie Cleveland.

Granger, 1-2, was victimized by a bouncing Rich Morales single that produced the tie, then retired at actual count seven in a row before facing Murrell.

The Padres hitter, who began the game with a 188 average, fouled off a pitch and drove the next delivery 370 feet for his second home run of the season.

Winning pitcher Rich Troedson, 2-0, walked Jose Cruz leading off the Cardinals ninth, but Mike Corkins relieved and preserved the triumph.

"I kind of figured I'd get a low pitch, but I didn't expect a curve," said Murrell in respect to the winning hit.

"What he didn't tell you," said Granger, "was that he had his pitch the first time and didn't get hold of it."

"The first pitch I threw was a hanging sinker, and he fouled it off. The next pitch was a hanging curve, and he homered on it."

"You keep doing that and you're going to get hurt," Granger conceded. "There's no percentage to it. I have only myself to blame."

Yankees Get McDowell, Dobson in NL Trades

NAIA Tourney Into Final Day

GRAMLING, S.C. (AP) — Mike Zack of St. Bernard in Alabama and Wofford, of nearby Spartanburg, held individual and team leads going into today's final round of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics annual golf tournament.

The tournament, scheduled for 72 holes, was shortened to 54 after Wednesday's second round was washed out by rain. The field of 34 teams and 183 players was cut to 17 teams and the 40 leaders and ties for today's final 18 holes.

game Thursday with the acquisition of left-hander Sam McDowell and right-hander Pat Dobson in separate deals with National League teams.

The Yankees gave the San Francisco Giants a "substantial amount of cash" for McDowell, a former American League strikeout king known as "Sudden Sam." The amount paid for the swift southpaw was said to be in the $100,000 neighborhood.

Four players were the price for Dobson, a right-hander the Atlanta Braves acquired only last winter in a trade with the Baltimore Orioles. The Yankees gave the Braves two minor leaguers—first baseman-outfielder Frank Tepedino and outfielder Wayne Nordhagen—and two players to be named at a later date.

The Yankees, endowed with plenty of hitting after some off-season trades, sorely needed pitching help to make a run at the AL East flag.

Added Attractions At Capital Track

HOLT SUMMIT, Mo. — In addition to the regular weekly racing program at Capital Speedway Saturday night, promoters have added two attractions to this week's schedule.

The St. Louis Midget Association will race in heat and feature events, along with the super-sprint, B-modified, hobby stock and late model stock divisions.

The other attraction be that of Ken Carter, tabbed as the "Mad Canadian," who will attempt to set a world record by jumping over two 65-passenger school buses in his car.

Second Week of SFCC Camp Opens Saturday

The second session of the State Fair Community College Basketball Camp will begin Saturday at 9 a.m. in the Agriculture Building on the Missouri State Fairgrounds.

The session will end Thursday at 1 p.m.

Heading the coaching staff for the second week will be Moberly Area Junior College coach Charles Spoonhour.

Spoonhour in his first year as a JuCo coach at Moberly in 1972-73, led the Greyhounds to the Region XVI (state) junior college finals. They were only one win away from a trip to the national finals in Hutchinson, Kan., but lost the rubber game of the best-of-three series against Three Rivers Junior College.

Assisting Spoonhour and SFCC head coach Bill Barton at the camp's second session will be Willie Jenkins, Smith-Cotton High School, and Dale Kimberling of Skyline High School in Urbana, Mo.

Persons between the ages of 11-16 interested in attending the camp may enroll Saturday at 9 a.m. The morning session is for boys ages 11-13. The afternoon sessions, which will start at 1 p.m. each day, is geared for boys between the ages of 14-16.

Fifty boys participated in the first week of the camp, which was scheduled to wind up Friday afternoon.

Five Moved To University Status

NEW YORK (AP) — Drake, Fresno State, Furman, Lamar and Southern Illinois have been elevated to University Division status by the National Collegiate Athletic Association for the 1973 football season, bringing to 126 the number of major college teams. The remaining 336 football-playing NCAA schools are classified as College Division teams.

So. Conference Re-elects Scott

MYRTLE BEACH, S.C. (AP) — Southern Conference athletic directors reelected Tom Scott of Davidson College head of their group Thursday at the concluding session of their four-day meeting.

Lyles Alley of Furman was elected vice president. Tom Joyner of VMI was named secretary and basketball schedules through 1975-6 and baseball for 1974 were completed.

Carl Morton Picks On Ex-Teammates

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN, Associated Press Sports Writer
Carl Morton returned to Montreal Thursday night and poured salt in the Expos' wounds.

"I wanted to come back in here and show these people I'm a big league pitcher. I think a lot of people didn't believe it last year," the Atlanta right-hander said after limiting his former teammates to three singles in six innings and picking up the victory when the Braves rallied for two runs in the seventh and won 3-2.

Coming off a 7-13 season after winning 28 games in two years and Rookie of the Year honors in 1970, Morton was traded to the Braves for pitcher Pat Jarvis during spring training. He was asked if he bore any animosity toward the Expos.

"I'd rather not answer that," he said, in effect answering it. In the only other National League games, the Los Angeles Dodgers blanked the Chicago Cubs 4-0 and the San Diego Padres edged the St. Louis Cardinals 4-3.

There were only three games in the American League, too. The California Angels beat the Detroit Tigers 3-0, the Chicago White Sox nipped the Baltimore Orioles 3-2 and the Texas Rangers shaded the New York Yankees 7-5.

Andy Messersmith pitched a three-hitter and Willie Davis hit his eighth home run to lead the Dodgers over the Cubs.

"Considering all the factors—the wind blowing out in Wrigley Field and the Cubs a hot team—this was my best game of the season," Messersmith said.

Ivan Murrell's leadoff home run in the ninth inning off reliever Wayne Granger, his second of the season, lifted the Padres to a come-from-behind victory that ended the Cardinals' five-game winning streak.

The White Sox scored two runs on only one hit in the fifth inning and went on to beat the Orioles as reliever Terry Forster halted two threats. The victory ended a five-game Chicago losing streak and stopped Baltimore's winning skein at four.

Nolan Ryan tamed Detroit on five hits and Jeff Torborg drove in two runs with a bases-loaded single to lead the Angels over the Tigers.

Despite the setback, the Tigers remained in first place in the American League East, one-half game ahead of the Yankees.

Alex Johnson doubled home the tie-breaking run with two out in the eighth inning and scored on an error to give the Rangers their victory over the Yankees after they trailed 5-0 at the end of one inning.

Don Stanhouse, who had dropped his first five decisions, allowed five hits in eight brilliant innings of relief.

Royals Schedule Tryout Series

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The next series of tryout camps for the Kansas City Royals' Baseball Academy begins Saturday in Norman, Okla.

The tryouts are part of a talent search involving 110 camps in 40 states and Canada prior to the August opening of the fourth class at the unique academy in Sarasota, Fla.

The academy is the pet project of Ewing Kauffman, Royals' owner, and is the only facility of its kind in the major league baseball training program. The classes, which stress intensive instruction in all phases of the game, are conducted in conjunction with scholastic studies at Manatee Junior College in nearby Bradenton, Fla.

Cape Girardeau, Mo., is the site of the next camp June 11 and then Jay Hankins, Royals scout, will conduct a two-day tryout here next Tuesday and Wednesday. The session at Royals Stadium is expected to draw over 300 young hopefuls.

Hankins is a former University of Missouri and Kansas City A's outfielder. Two other members of the Royals organization, John Metro and Gary Blaylock, will direct other tryout camps.

Lou Gorman, director of player procurement for the Royals, said previous baseball experience is not a requirement at the tryouts, since the academy is designed to develop raw skills. But one essential consideration is speed, Gorman said.

The tryout lineup, with all sessions beginning at 10 a.m.: MISSOURI—Cape Girardeau, June 11, Capshaw Park; Kansas City, June 12-13, Royals Stadium; St. Louis, June 16, Meramec Junior College; Joplin, June 18, Joe Becker Stadium.

KANSAS—Newton, June 14, Centennial Field.

NEBRASKA—Omaha, June 20, Rosenblatt Stadium; North Platte, June 22, Bill Wood Field.

ARKANSAS—Little Rock, July 6, Lamar Porter Field.

OKLAHOMA—Norman, June 9, Reeves Park.

Men's Softball Tourney Opens On Saturday

The Second-annual men's Tri-County Softball Tournament opens Saturday evening in Hubbard Park.

Three games are on tap in the double-elimination tourney opening day. In the opener, Green Ridge will take on Windsor at 6 p.m.; Clear Creek goes against Cole Camp at 7:30 p.m., while S-M Sporting Goods meets Budweiser at 9 p.m.

Sunday's schedule — LaMonte vs. Permaneer, 4 p.m.; Sweet Springs vs. Boonville, 6 p.m.; losers of the Clear Creek-Cole Camp and S-M-Budweiser games meet at 7:30 p.m.; at 9 p.m., the winners of the Clear Creek-Cole Camp and S-M-Budweiser contests will battle.

The tourney will wind up June 16.

Nastase, Smith Favored To Win Singles Crown

ROME (AP) — Romania's Ilie Nastase, defeated in the men's doubles competition by an outburst of his volatile temper, has joined Stan Smith of Pasadena, Calif., as a co-favorite to win the singles crown of the $135,000 Italian Open Tennis Championships.

Nastase stalked off the court during a doubles match Thursday after arguing most of the time with the crowd, which applauded every mistake made by the Romanian and his teammate, Jimmy Connors of Los Angeles.

Patrice Dominguez and Warrano N'Godrella of France were leading 4-6, 1-2 when Nas-tase stormed off the court. "Probably I am crazy," Nastase said, "but they (the crowd) are a wild bunch. You just can't play with that noise."

Nastase, seeded second, scored an effortless 6-0, 6-3 victory over Ezio Di Matteo of Italy in a third-round match.

Smith faces Harold Solomon of Silver Spring, Md., who upset England's Mark Cox 6-1, 6-4 in the third round, today.

In other third-round American victories, Kristy Kemmer surprised No. 3 seed Virginia Wade, the 1971 champion here, 6-4, 1-6, 7-5 and Linda Tuero of Metairie, La., beat Laura Dupont of Charlotte, N.C., 6-1, 6-4.

Marshall Suffers First Loss

3rd Postponement in Row For Sedalia in BJ Loop

It's only the second full week of the Central Missouri Ban Johnson League campaign, but the Sedalia club may already be getting a little rusty, since the team hasn't played a game in more than a week.

The Merchants had one scheduled Thursday night in California, however, California has no lights and the game was postponed. That marked the third straight postponement for Sedalia.

A full slate of games was scheduled Thursday night, but only three of five were played. In addition to the Sedalia-California postponement, the Boonville Eagles didn't even have to get their uniforms dirty, winning by forfeit over Tipton. Only seven Tipton players showed up for the game in Boonville.

Of the three games played, the Marshall-Columbia Angels game drew virtually all of the CMBJ spotlight.

With the game tied 1-1 in the bottom of the eighth, the Angels came up with 10 unearned runs on eight Marshall errors and routed Marshall 11-1. It was the first loss of the season for Marshall, which took a 4-0 record into the game.

The Angels ran their record to 3-0 with the win, which was credited to Ray Ash. It was his second decision in as many starts. Al Leimkuehler was the loser.

Ash struck out 15; Leimkuehler KO'd 12, but caught the brunt of his team's shoddy defensive play in the eighth.

In the two other contests, Jefferson City found the new Columbia entry, the Skaggs, a bit too much. The Skaggs posted a 10-5 victory. And Centralia downed Hutsville, 9-6.

With any luck, Sedalia will take on Marshall Saturday night at 8 p.m. in Marshall. The game is a rescheduled contest from Tuesday, when a scheduling conflict forced postponement.

Jim Barber's 65 Leads Tournament

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Jim Barber, who is sponsored on the pro golf tour by his 70-year-old grandmother and uses a gasoline station operator's discarded putter, was the surprise leader today as the field started the second round of the $150,000 Philadelphia Golf Classic.

The 24-year-old Barber shot a seven-under-par 34-31—65 Thursday over the 6,708-yard Whitemarsh Valley Country Club course to lead Mike Reasor by one stroke. Reasor fashioned a 32-34—66 on the tight little layout dotted with sandtraps and treacherous out-of-bounds stakes.

Another stroke back in the 72-hole test for a $30,000 first prize were red-hot Tom Weiskopf, twice a winner in the last four weeks; Hale Irwin, John Adams and Larry Ziegler, each with five-under-par 67s.

Jack Nicklaus, the tour's leading money winner and a four-time victor this year, posted a one-over 73, commenting, "It wasn't a very good round of golf." Nicklaus came here to get ready for next week's U.S. Open at Oakmont, near Pittsburgh, the first time golf's No. 1 player has ever competed the week preceding an Open.

The most surprised person on the course appeared to be the long, blond-haired Barber, who physically is somewhat of a look-alike for Nicklaus. The 6-foot native of Clearwater, Fla., hadn't made the cut in five of the 10 tournaments in which he played this year. He didn't even qualify for four others. His earnings are $3,685 for the year.

Kansas Amateur Tournament

Doyle Thames Surprises Rocky Waitt

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Frank Rose of Topeka and Jim Vickers of Wichita, the only former champions still in the Kansas Amateur Golf Tournament, were matched against each other today.

Rose advanced easily through Thursday's first round of match play and Vickers won by default.

The big surprise of Thursday's round was the 5 and 4 victory of Doyle Thames Jr., of Kansas City over Rocky Waitt of Wichita.

Thames, a Kansas State student, threw five birdies at Waitt, an Arizona State student who is one of the few amateurs in the nation to qualify for the U.S. Open.

Two rounds were to be played today on the 6,614-yard, par 36-35—71 Leawood South course. The semifinals will be Saturday and the 36-hole finals Sunday.

First round results in the championship flight:

Charles Van Dyne, Kansas City, beat Scott Day, Wichita, 3 and 2.

Rod Iverson, Arkansas City, beat Don Miller, Atchison, 5 and 4.

Paul Anderson, Manhattan, beat Bill Henley, Milburn, 3 and 2. Gary Navarro, Wichita, beat Brent Olney, Manhattan, 2 up.

Dick Landon, Kansas City, beat Steve Ricketson, Kansas City, 3 and 2.

Steve Gill, Wellington, beat Dennis Payne III, Topeka 1 up.

Doyle Thames Jr., Kansas City, beat Rocky Waitt, Wichita, 5 and 4.

Rick Nuckolls, Wichita, beat John Hansen, Wichita, 4 and 3.

Dakin Cramer, Wichita, beat John Bowser, Kansas City, 2 and 1.

Trent Ash, Newton, beat Mike Peck, Kansas City, 1 up.

Bob Weaver, Kansas City, beat James Overby, Parsons, 1 up.

Bill Whitney, Wellington, beat Wright Beck, Kansas City, 1 up.

Jim Vickers, Wichita, won from Bill Mosimann, Olathe, by default.

Frank Rose, Topeka, beat Roe Missner, Wichita, 6 and 5.

Bill Blair, Olathe, beat Ray Staggs, Kansas City, 2 up.

Bob Enger, Kansas City, beat Stu Shockley, Kansas City, 4 and 3.

Lynch Finally Succeeds In Moving ABA Tams

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — After three frustrating attempts, Paul Lynch has succeeded in bringing an American Basketball Association team to Providence.

"We won't be buying the Memphis Tams," Lynch announced on May 15. He said conditions imposed on the deal by sports magnate Charles O. Finley were too stringent.

On Thursday, Lynch, a 28-year-old executive for a Providence-based paving company, reversed himself.

"It's our team now," he said announcing the $1.3 million deal.

Final arrangements were hammered out last week in Chicago by Finley and Lynch, who represents a local syndicate of 29 businessmen.

Lynch said although negotiations faltered, Finley kept after him with telephone calls trying to unload the team that cost him $525,000 and had the losing record in the league.

ABA Commissioner Robert Carlson said a tentative telephone meeting of league owners has been called for Monday to vote on the sale. A majority of 10 owners is needed to ratify it.

Outgoing Tams' coach Bob Bass said he won't be coming to Providence and wasn't "particularly shocked" at the sale. He said he would "have to sit back and take a few days" to decide his own future.

A rational alternative to rationing gas.

What's right with this picture? Well if it were true, we'd be saving 28 billion, 560 million gallons of gas every year.

How did we arrive at that figure? Since we're a nation of national averages, we know the average car uses about 735 gallons of gas a year. The Beetle, 399*. Turn the eighty-five million average cars on the road right now into Beetles, and it works out to a saving of 28,560,000,000 (give or take a few gallons).

Now we haven't figured out all the water and antifreeze that would be saved with the Beetle's air-cooled engine.

Nor can we compute the extra parking space that would be around.

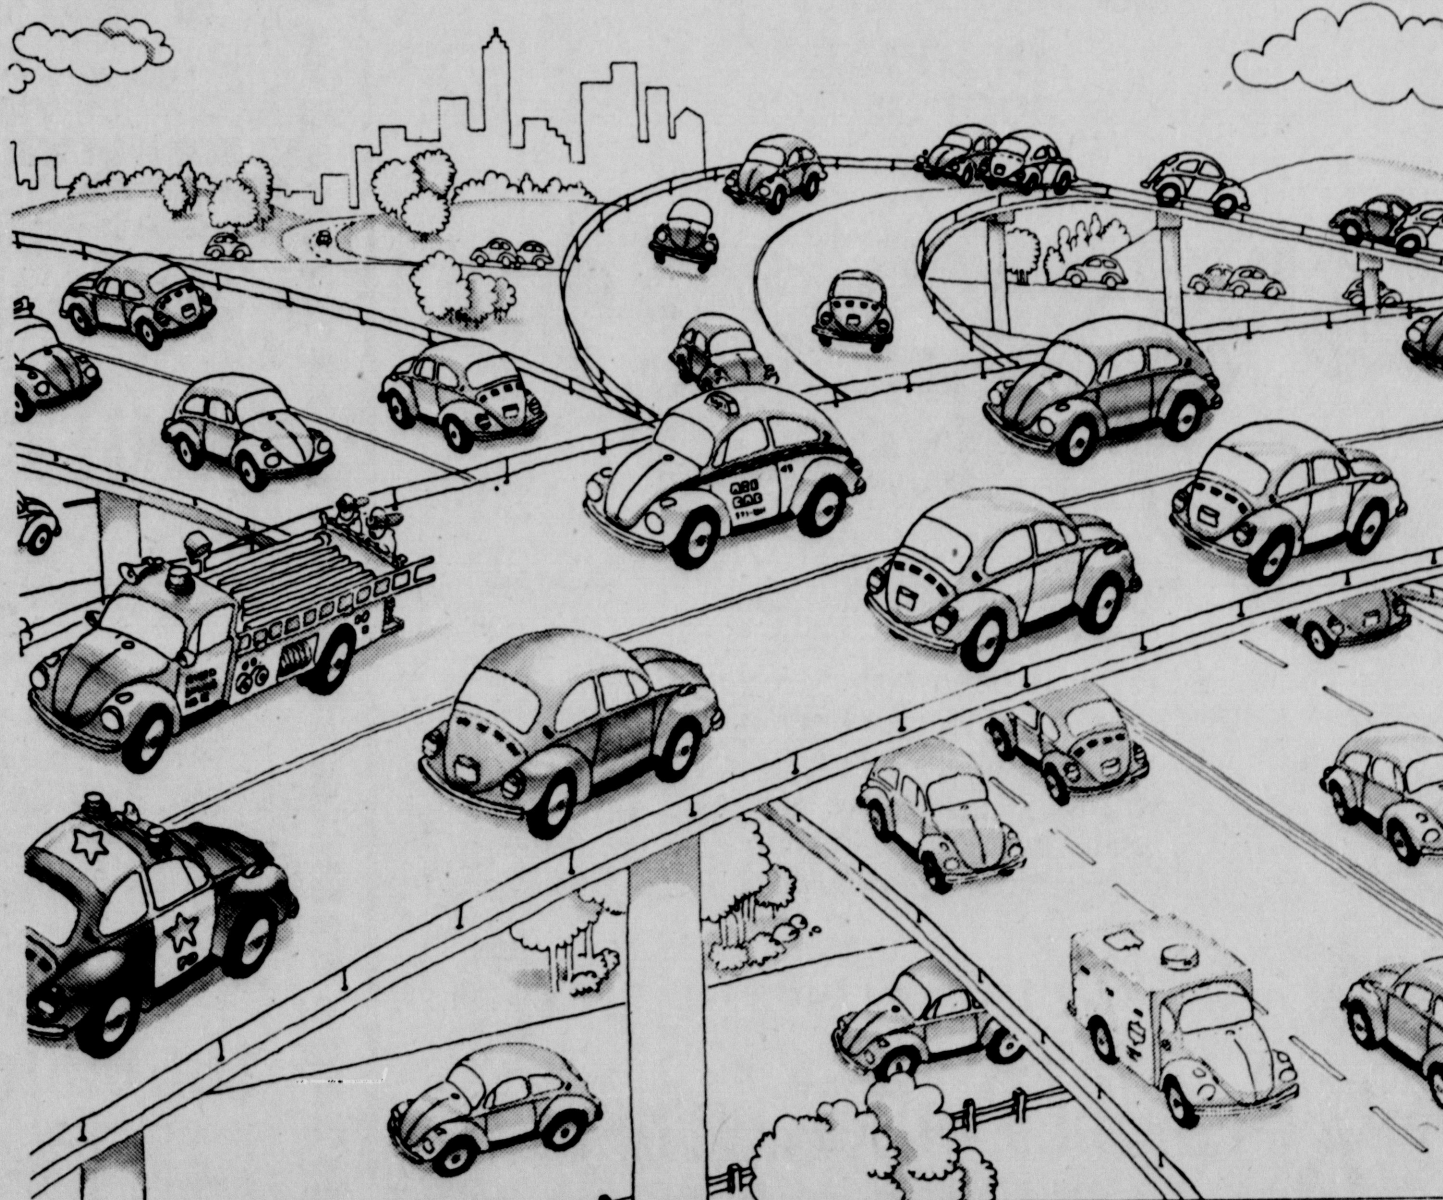

Not to mention all the money people would be able to save in a world of Volkswagens.

But we know for sure that this is no pipe dream. There already are police car Beetles up in Ossining. And a custom built, chauffeur-driven Bug in L. A. And Volkswagen taxis all over Honduras. And a Beetle that herds cattle in Missouri.

So with gas prices going up and rationing becoming a reality, the Beetle never looked so good. In fact, you might almost call it beautiful.

Levelheaded Actress Is Accompanied by Her Husband

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD — At most Hollywood get-togethers, the conversation invariably gets around to one question: who will be the next big star? It has always been thus and it probably always will be.

These days, the consensus is that the two girls with the best shot at major stardom are Joanna Cassidy and Lindsay Wagner. Miss Cassidy just finished a meaty role in "The Outfit," so watch for her.

Lindsay Wagner is a tall, exceptionally beautiful girl and you can see her opposite Peter Fonda in "Two People." She is under contract to Universal.

She hopes she won't follow in the footsteps of other Universal stars-to-be. The studio has uncovered a couple in recent years — Katharine Ross and Carrie Snodgrass — who made it big and then got tangled up in their emotions and personal lives and virtually dropped out.

Chances are that won't happen with Lindsay. She's more ambitious than the other girls were and seems more levelheaded. She wants to be a star and that's half the battle.

Her name, which sounds like somebody decided to name her after New York City's last two mayors, is real. She says her father wanted a boy, to carry on a family football-playing tradition, and called her Lindsay when she came along.

"I didn't like the name as a

little girl," she says, "but it had its compensations. When I went to college (University of Oregon) I was invited to the freshman men's athletic luncheon — they saw my name and thought I was a boy. I put on a pair of pants, combed my hair back and went."

She's a Los Angeles girl and she says her childhood was a strange one. Her parents split up. Her mother, who was very young when Lindsay was born, had never really "lived," and she began living and Lindsay says the result was "a very informal childhood." When Lindsay was 15, her mother remarried and had a child and Lindsay practically raised the baby.

She always was pretty and, at 13, an MGM scout wanted to sign her for a TV series. She decided against it but, from then on, she was frequently "discovered" and offered contracts, among other things.

"I kept resisting," she says.

A neighbor, Pete Terranova, of Universal's talent department, kept after her to let him arrange a test. She kept saying she wasn't ready. She modeled, she lived a little. Finally, one day she felt she was ready and called Terranova.

Two days later, she was playing a nurse on a Marcus Welby episode. She went right from that into a Night Gallery and an Adam-12 and a few weeks later she was playing the lead on Marcus Welby.

"I kept resisting," she says.

A neighbor, Pete Terranova, of Universal's talent department, kept after her to let him arrange a test. She kept saying she wasn't ready. She modeled, she lived a little. Finally, one day she felt she was ready and called Terranova.

Two days later, she was playing a nurse on a Marcus Welby episode. She went right from that into a Night Gallery and an Adam-12 and a few weeks later she was playing the lead on Marcus Welby.

That was only a bit more than two years ago. For her, getting started in the business has been no struggle.

Last fall she married a writer-photographer named Allan Rider. Because of his profession, he can accompany her when she goes on location, as she was on "Two People." She thinks that's a good thing.

"Too many actresses," she says, "have temptations with their leading men (and vice-versa). But if I go home at night and Allan is there, whatever temptation I may have felt leaves me, if it ever existed at all."

Allan better stick around — Lindsay, chances are, will be having lots of leading men from here on.

Berenson Is Becoming a Very Sought-after Actress

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD — There's something about a girl in a yellow bikini making a salad that has always touched me.

When that girl is designer Elsa Schiaparelli's granddaughter, and the salad has spinach and mushrooms, well, it's almost too much to bear.

If you saw "Cabaret," you saw the girl. But you didn't see her in a bikini and that's your loss. Her name is Marisa Berenson and she played the Jewish socialite in that much-awarded film. On the strength of that part, and her earlier role opposite Dirk Bogarde in Visconti's "Death in Venice," she's become one of the most sought-after young actresses in the world.

She sliced a tomato, her shoulders moving rhythmically, and she rattled off her future plans. She has an Italian film, "A Way to be a Woman," ready for release, and she's soon to start her next. She'll costar with Ryan O'Neal in Stanley Kubrick's forthcoming movie.

"It will be made in England," she said, slicing away, "but I don't know what it's about. Nobody has seen the script. All I know is that it's a 19th century setting, and I play an English countess and Ryan is an Irishman. I just took the part on the strength of Kubrick's name."

She speaks with an English-continental accent, the product of her nearly 10 years in boarding schools in France, Switzerland, England and Italy.

Hers was, she says, a difficult childhood. She was born in New York. Her father was the late Robert Berenson, an American diplomat and shipping magnate. Her mother was Schiaparelli's daughter.

They kept sending her to boarding schools throughout Europe. She says she resented school but she also resented it when she was home with her parents, too.

"I was a difficult child," she says. "I had my problems."

After she grew up and became a top model in New York she consulted a psychic. She says he traightened her out "although not entirely — I'm still rather complicated and I'm still not sure what I want to do with my life."

She attacked an onion, mincing away merrily, and said that there are times when she thinks she'd like to quit her budding career, get married and have children. There are other times when she knows she wants to be a big star.

She says she isn't even sure where she wants to live. Her present home is in Paris, where she lives with her grandmother, Mme. Schiaparelli, but she may move.

"I just don't know where I want to live," she says. "I like America in general and California in particular but I don't think I'd like to live here. I still keep my American passport — I'd never give that up — but at the moment I prefer European living."

This vacillation extends to her career, too. For awhile, she wanted to be an interior decorator and still dabbles with that alleged art. She had a big career as a model. Acting always appealed to her, however, and she studied while she modeled.

"My grandmother," she says, "didn't approve of me modeling but she thinks acting is fine."

She speaks English, French and Italian fluently and dubs and drabs of a few other languages. French was her first language but she says that now she thinks she can express herself best in English. She isn't sure, however, which language she dreams in — that's the ultimate test.

About the only thing she's really unhappy about these days is the way most Americans pronounce her first name — they say it as though it were spelled Marissa. She says that drives her up the wall. Marisa, as Marisa says it, is musical and the last two syllables rhyme with "freezer," and you have to roll the R just a trifle.

With that lesson in pronunciation, the salad was ready. So is Marisa Berenson.

ORMANDY OPENS HOLLYWOOD BOWL

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Eugene Ormandy will conduct Beethoven's Eighth and Ninth symphonies to open the 1973 Hollywood Bowl season, July 10.

There will be 10 regular weeks and a week of preseason and one of postseason performances. The Los Angeles Philharmonic will play 40 programs.

Three young conductors will share the bulk of the conducting duties: James Levine, Principal conductor of the Metropolitan Opera, Edo de Waart, chief conductor of the Rotterdam Philharmonic, and Lawrence Foster, music director of the Houston Symphony.

There will be four concert performances of opera, "Don Giovanni," "La Boheme," "The Damnation of Faust" and "Trouble in Tahiti," the latter by Leonard Bernstein.

Ask TV Scout

GAYNOR'S AGE

After watching Mitzi Gaynor's TV special my daughter-in-law said Miss Gaynor is about 30 or 32. I argued that was impossible. There's a free dinner at stake. — Mrs. H. Pearlman, Chicago, Ill.

Mitzi Gaynor was born in Chicago, Ill., in 1931 which makes her 42.

ESKIMO FILM

Please tell me if the movie "The Savage Innocents" was taken from a book. — Mark W. Phillips, Anchorage, Alaska.

"The Savage Innocents," a drama of contemporary Eskimo life, was taken from "Top of the World," a novel by Hana Reusch. Starring in the film were Anthony Quinn, Yoko Tani, Peter O'Toole, Carlo Giustini and Marco Guzzieimi.

BIBLE TALE

Who played Ruth in "The Story of Ruth" from the '60s? — Joann Taylor, Chicago, Ill.

Elena Eden starred as Ruth in this 1960 biblical tale of a woman who renounces the worship of pagan gods when she feels she finds the true religion. Stuart Whitman, Tom Tryon (author of "The Other") and Viveca Lindfors costarred.

SAME PLOT

"The Small Miracle" on television reminded me of the movie "Never Take No For an Answer." My friend says there never was such a movie. — Miss J. C., Chicago, Ill.

Such a film indeed existed. Released in 1951 it told the story of a small boy who tried to take his sick donkey to the crypt of St. Francis, where he was sure the animal would recover. Such was the premise of Hallmark Hall of Fame's recent telecast of Paul Gallico's "The Small Miracle."

MARLO'S AGE

I say Marlo Thomas is older than 30. My mom says she's not. Also, where was she born? — Donna Marie Spina, Avona Heights, Easton, Pa.

You're right. Actress Marlo Thomas (That Girl) is 35. She was born in Detroit, Mich., in 1938.

SEA HUMOR

Who starred in the movie "All Hands on Deck?" — Timothy D. Thomas, Chicago, Ill.

The cast of this 1961 musical comedy about free-wheeling sailors included Pat Boone, Buddy Hackett, Dennis O'Keefe, Barbara Eden, Warren Berlinger, Gale Gordon and David Brandon.

HOLLYWOOD CUSTER

Could you tell me who portrayed General Custer in the movie "They Died With Their Boots On?" — Tim Murphy, Chicago, Ill.

The late Errol Flynn portrayed Custer in this 1951 sweeping Hollywood version of events at Little Big Horn. Costarring were Olivia deHavilland, Arthur Kennedy, Charley Grapewin, Gene Lockhart, Anthony Quinn, Stanley Ridges and Sydney Greenstreet.

FAIR GROUNDS

I'd like to know who starred in "State Fair." — James Muro, Harrisburg, Pa.

STRANGE TV

Who was the star of The Strange Report? — L. L. K., Wheeling, Ill.

Anthony Quayle portrayed Adam Strange in the syndicated British series, The Strange Report.

LITTLE INFO

Is Dr. Noland of Temperatures Rising married, how old is he and where was he born? Was he on stage before television? — S. R., Chicago, Ill.

Cleavon Little (Dr. Noland on ABC-TV's Temperatures Rising), 33, is married to Valerie Wiggins. He was born and raised in San Diego, Calif. Little's stage successes include "MacBird," "Scuba Duba," "Jimmy Shine" and "Purlie," for which he won a Tony Award.

TV PLAY

Who starred in the Matinee Theatre presentation of "Wuthering Heights?" — Janice Bailey, Miami, Fla.

Charles Macauley, Natalie Norwich, Peggy Weber and Richard Boone starred in the Albert McCleery production of "Wuthering Heights" for Matinee Theatre. This program of daily daytime dramas aired in 1955 and lasted three seasons.

DAVID & JENNIFER

What is Jennifer Jones' real name, was she ever married to David Selznick and are they still living? — Debra James, Elmwood Park, Ill.

Actress Jennifer Jones (born Phyllis Isley in Tulsa, Okla.), after a tempestuous marriage to the late actor Robert Walker, married producer David O. Selznick July 13, 1949. The ceremony took place aboard the 33-ton yacht Manona and was officiated by the ship's British captain. To assure the legality of the marriage, a second ceremony was performed at the Geno, Italy, city hall. Selznick died June 22, 1965, at the age of 63. Miss Jones is still living; she is 54 and the wife of businessman-art collector Norton Simon.

TV DICKS

Who were the stars of Checkmate and when did it come on TV? — R. Matthew, Cape Girardeau, Mo.

Sebastian Cabot, Doug McClure and Anthony George were the private eye trio on Checkmate, aired in 1960.

QUEEN JUDY

Please settle an argument between me and my family. I say Judy Garland died in 1966; they disagree. — S. A., Chicago, Ill.

The great Judy Garland died in 1969 at the age of 47.

SCREEN CARMEN

Please tell me how old Diahann Carroll is and if she starred in the film "Carmen Jones." — Gloria Mercer, Chicago, Ill.

Born in the Bronx, N.Y., Diahann Carroll (Julia) is 38. She was not in "Carmen Jones." Dorothy Dandridge, Harry Belafonte and Pearl Bailey headed the cast of this 1955 screen adaptation of "Carmen."

Boozers' Row

Please tell me who was in both the TV and movie productions of "Days of Wine and Roses." — Elizabeth Long, Corpus Christi, Tex.

J. P. Miller's drama of a pair of alcoholics trying to save their marriage was presented on TV's Playhouse 90 in 1958 with Cliff Robertson, Piper Laurie, and Charles Bickford heading the cast. In 1962, Jack Lemmon, Lee Remick, Charles Bickford, Jack Klugman, Alan Hewitt, Tom Palmer and Jack Albertson starred in the film version of "Days of Wine and Roses." Lemmon and Remick were nominated for Academy Awards. The title theme won for Best Song.

Sweden to Washington

Please settle a disagreement with my husband as to who played the leading roles in the TV series The Farmer's Daughter. — Mrs. Donna Neary, Floodwood, Minn.

The late Inger Stevens starred in the title role of this 1963 comedy series. William Windom played the Congressman and Cathleen Nesbitt was featured as his mother. The film version (1947) starred Loretta Young, Joseph Cotten and Ethel Barrymore. Miss Young won an Academy Award for her performance.

Two Bills

My neighbor and I would like to know the names of the two actors who played the uncle on My Three Sons. — E. N., Orlando, Fla.

William Frawley (Fret Mertz on I Love Lucy) played Michael Francis O'Casey, affectionately known as Bub on CBS-TV's My Three Sons, until his death in 1966. He was replaced by William Demarest as Uncle Charlie.

Early Corbells

Who played Ma and Pa Kettle in the movies? Are they still alive? — Tom Renner, Fortuna, Calif.

Ma and Pa Kettle were played by Marjorie Main, now retired at 83 and maintaining homes in Los Angeles and Palm Springs, and Percy Kilbride, who died in 1964 at the age of 76. Universal Studios made a bundle with the low-budget Kettle series begun in 1947 with "The Egg and I," from Betty MacDonald's best-selling book of that title. The original tale described the hardships of a city dweller (Caadette Colbert) who married a chicken farmer (Fred MacMurray) and encountered incredible local characters near his farm. Two of these, Ma and Pa Kettle, were given prime footage on the screen. Kilbride left the series in 1955. Arthur Hunnicut and Parker Fennelly took turns at the role but neither one caught on and the series came to an end in 1957.

Mounted Cop

Would you please tell me who starred in Sergeant Preston of the Yukon?

Richard Simmons starred as Mountie Sergeant Preston of the Canadian Mounted Police in this 1955 syndicated adventure show. Also featured were his horse, Rex, and his faithful dog, Yukon King.

Click, Click

Was Charles Bronson ever in a TV series. How old is he? — Bob Morgan, Alexandria, La.

Charles Bronson starred as free-lance photographer Mike Kovaks on ABC-TV's Man With a Camera, aired in 1958. This show, similar to radio's Casey, Crime Photographer series, proved that photography could be dangerous as well as fun. Born in Scoopstown, Pa., Bronson is 53.

Deadly Trip

Your discussion of "Death Takes a Holiday" reminded me of a similar film, with a boy and an old man. It might have been called "Death Up a Tree." Can you give me the cast and year? — Mrs. Hazel Mace, St. Petersburg, Fla.

The film, released in 1939, was an adaptation of a stage play. It was called "On Borrowed Time" and it told the story of an old man (Lionel Barrymore), not quite ready to die, who was visited by Death in the person of Mr. Brink (Sir Cedric Hardwicke). Barrymore and his grandson (Bobs Watson) managed, for a time, to trap Death up a tree (symbol of life). Featured were Beulah Bondi, Una Merkel, Ian Wolfe, Philip Terry and Elly Malyon.

Bob & Natalie

Would you give me the birth place and year of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wagner? — J. M., Chicago, Ill.

Robert Wagner was born in Detroit, Mich., in 1930. His wife, actress Natalie Wood, was born in San Francisco, Calif., 35 years ago.

Renewal Offers Lee a Chance to Learn the Shim Shimmy

By JOAN CROSBY

BEVERLY HILLS, CALIF. — Lee Meriwether is very happy that Barnaby Jones, the CBS-TV series in which she costars with Buddy Ebsen, has been renewed.

It gives her more time to learn the Shim Sham Shimmy.

That, if you're not up on such things, is a dance and Buddy, a former dancer, has been trying to teach it to Lee.

At the end of shooting for the series' first half-season, there was a party for cast and crew and Buddy suddenly asked Lee to join him in the dance.

She wasn't too pleased with her performance and later said, "I'll learn it if it takes forever."

Lee had arrived breathless and a bit late for her interview, apologizing that she had had one of those problem mornings when everything goes wrong. "I was so rushed I didn't even put any make-up on," she said, and that's when the interview nearly got cancelled. She looked gorgeous.

Lee hasn't been given much opportunity to play comedy, which she would like, and Barnaby Jones is not going to give it to her.

"But a couple of the scripts had a line or two stuck in as if maybe the role had a bit of personality. Maybe the writers saw me fooling around on the set and figured 'guess she can handle this.' Buddy looked at me in surprise one day and said, 'You're funny.'"

She is funny. She's also a very normal housewife (Mrs. Frank Aletter) and mother. She's also a serious actress who has proven her range in productions at Hollywood's Theater West.

"I just did my first musical for them, a family musical. It was called 'Aesop in Central Park' and I played a lion." (Lee the Lion, hmmm?)

She thinks she has been lucky in her TV roles, although she does agree that casting directors may tend to place her in the beautiful "but" category unless they have seen her on stage or in some of her more demanding roles.

Her most unusual role was playing a man in the camp movie classic "The Legend of Lylah Clare." Here, which was played three different ways according to the memories of those involved, called for her to rip the clothes off the star.

"I didn't retreat. I generally don't go around tearing off people's clothes. In mid-scene, Peter Finch tossed his riding crop at me, which had not been planned and I was very pleased because I reacted, not as Lee, but as the man.

"I don't really have any one

role I'd want to play above others. I know I've had a lot of fun in my career and I've done some things of which I'm proud."

TV Leaves Movies With Little Original Material

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD — "Tom Sawyer" is one of the big hits of the season. What makes it nice is that it is a family picture, which means that parents enjoy it as much as the kids do.

It seems easy. Why aren't there more such films? Director Don Taylor, who made "Tom Sawyer," thinks he knows the answer to that puzzler.

"The big problem today," Taylor says, "is finding material. The major stumbling block is that television has moved in on the areas of story material for feature films."

Taylor says between TV's movies and TV's news coverage they've just about used up the story areas for features. News coverage of wars, violent crimes and such also encroach on feature film story possibilities.

"They do the things features used to do," he says. "We have to find films that they can't or won't do. It either has to be too sexy or too violent for the home screen, or too big and too expensive."

He says that accounts for films like his own "Tom Sawyer" (TV did a "Tom Sawyer," too, but not in the big, splashy, musical way) and films like "Last Tango in Paris."

"Tom Sawyer" is Taylor's fifth picture as a director and by far his biggest. You may remember him as an actor, who gave Elizabeth Taylor her first on-screen kiss, in "Father of the Bride."

He always wanted to direct and did a lot of TV shows before he got his first crack at a feature film. Now, with "Tom Sawyer," he's firmly established as a top director.

What made it nice for Taylor and "Tom Sawyer" was that his film beat out the highly-touted "Lost Horizon" for the plum spot as the Radio City Music Hall Easter attraction in New York.

"When I first heard that," Taylor says, "I was terribly excited. However, the poor reviews of 'Lost Horizon' took some edge off my excitement."

This currently is a major plateau for him. His first plateau was to direct — anything. The second was to become known as a good, solid, workmanlike TV director. Then came the plateau labeled "feature film director."

He did four features — most notably "Escape From the Planet of the Apes." Now, with "Tom Sawyer," he has arrived as director of a big money-maker.

"The problem now," he says, "is to stay where I am and then

TETON FESTIVAL GETS NEW HALL

TETON VILLAGE, Wyo. (AP) — A new concert hall on the lower slope of the Teton Mountains will be the permanent home of the Grand Teton Music Festival in Jackson Hole, Wyo.

The first row of seats will be on the stage level with further rows on a rising slope. The hall will seat 800 with expansion potential for 1,200 seats. It is set in an aspen grove watered by a creek on land donated by the Jackson Hole Ski Corp. in Teton Village. Looking up while approaching the hall, one sees the peaks of the Teton north and south as far as sight can extend.

The first season in the new Festival Hall will begin on July 24 and last five weeks. There will be 20 programs, including chamber music, contemporary music and symphony concerts. It is the 12th year of the festival.

go on to the next higher plateau."

That next one, probably, would be a film that wins a few Oscars. He may have already scaled it. "Tom Sawyer" could win a few — maybe for a song, maybe for Celeste Holm's or Warren Oates' performances, maybe for other things.

He much prefers directing to acting. He says he never misses acting in front of a camera but whenever he sees a stage play, the old urge comes back.

"I want to jump up there on the stage," he says, "and get in on the fun."

He won't do "Huckleberry Finn," which will be made by the same group that did "Tom Sawyer." For one thing, he doesn't want to repeat himself. For another, he doesn't feel that "Huck" lends itself to being musicalized as well or as easily as "Tom" did.

No matter what happens now, he's happy. He's got a blockbuster to his credit.

Anniversary Telecast Will Reflect Last Three Decades of Bandstand

By JOAN CROSBY

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. — The reception area of a particular office on Sunset Boulevard is decorated in Early American post office. There are wanted posters and old-fashioned mail boxes framing a window behind which sits a mod receptionist at a switchboard.

The office of the boss looks like an antique store ready for a clearance sale. The only relaxed thing there is the moose head resting in a bathtub, rakishly covered with a blanket. In this setting you'll find man-in-motion Dick Clark.

Not much is restful around Dick Clark, the same Dick Clark who, two decades ago, emerged as the square young gentleman of the rock generation.

Now, 21 years after American Bandstand began in Philadelphia, Dick is host of a 20th anniversary telecast of the show "because I'm a bad mathematician," he says.

It will be seen on ABC's late night Wide World of Entertainment on June 19, and then be repeated the following Saturday afternoon.

"The show will cover 20 years but reflect 30 years, the 50s, 60s and 70s. The three eras will be represented by Little Richard, Paul Revere and the Raiders and Three Dog Night. Cheech and Chong will do Un-American Bandstand and there will be lots of camera from such as Frankie Avalon, Fabian, Neil Diamond, Bobby Darin, Fats Domino, Johnny Mathis and Conway Twitty and more signing up every day."

Dick, with his hair in semibangs and his clothes California casual, looks even younger than he did when he was Philadelphia's Mr. Prim.

"I was doing 17 hours of live TV a week. When you do that much you can't play a role. You've got to be what you are."

He paused. "But what people are looking at on television is 85 per cent real. The rest is disguise. I appeared to be sweet, clean and pure of heart. But off camera, I drank, smoked and swore. I was relatively naive, I'll say that."

"In those days, I lived in an artificial world. I live in a real world today. Now, for instance, someone can write a derogatory article about me and it won't harm me. I'm an awful lot older, not only chronologically, but I'm also more sophisticated."

He's also extremely busy. In the next 2 1/2 months, Dick's production company is responsible for 17 specials, including one with Roberta Flack coming up on ABC. Additionally, he flies to New York once a week to announce the quiz show, $10,000 Pyramid.

"I have to be active," he says. "And I can account for what I'll be doing every hour for the next few weeks."

And he obviously thrives on it.

Free-lance Actor Has Pretty Good Year

By JOAN CROSBY
BEVERLEY HILLS, Calif. — Roger Perry knows he had a pretty good year as a free-lance actor during the past TV season because he recalls going for about five months without collecting unemployment.

Like many actors out here, Roger would like a series (he has been in two, Harrigan and Son and Arrest and Trial). Meanwhile, he does parts as they come along, including a great many pilots.

Right this minute he is on the set of Frank and Adele and Paul Makes Three, an ABC-TV Movie of the Week for next season. He is playing a character named Keith, the former best friend of the hero and his part is one scene.

"I only knew the day before yesterday that I had been cast, and I didn't get the script until late last night," he says.

This means Roger did not have time to read the entire script. "Realistically, it's not necessary," he says, "as long as you have the needed information on the character you're playing and you know why you're in the scene and the relationship to the other characters involved."

He was in the recent pilot Barbara Eden made and found himself with mixed emotions about whether or not he wanted it to sell.

"Financially, I was hoping it would sell. But otherwise, I wasn't. It was made in a hurry. Being unemployed is an occupational hazard for an actor. Someone who knows Henry Fonda very well told me Fonda is always sure he'll never work again when he completes a job. Do I feel like that? Yeah!"

Actually, Roger knows he will work again, even if he's not overjoyed at spending a week in Philadelphia. He and his steady lady, JoAnne Worley, have done "Goodbye Charlie" in stock, and they have a week's engagement in the play in Philadelphia in June.

He's a member of Theater East, a workshop and he's generally there Monday meetings. When he's not working, he's also playing golf.

At one time, he had time to play a lot. But last year, with fewer trips to the unemployment office, his golf suffered a bit. That's show buzz!

Voice Proves To Be His Major Asset

By JOAN CROSBY
BURBANK, Calif. — Dick Enberg would have to be a calm man, because who else could manage to be a sports announcer covering the California Angels baseball games, the host of NBC-TV's daily game show, Baffle, and the host of the syndicated sports show, Sports Challenge?

Plus little extras, like flying to New York's Madison Square Garden to cover the first of the recent series of USA vs. U.S.S.R. basketball games which, he discovered, was a difficult task because the Russian team didn't take off their warmup jackets until play started. It was impossible to tell which memorized name went with which player.

He takes it all in stride, more or less, as he has taken everything since, as a kid in Michigan, he decided he wanted to be a baseball player.

"But Mother Nature gave me a small body for an athlete, and big feet and a nice voice," he says. So, as time passed, he decided to use his voice.

He went to Central Michigan University, "which was small then," he recalls. "I began doing the Public Address announcements at athletic games and I got $4 a game. In those days, you could take a girl to the theater and buy her a hamburger afterwards on that money."

The only radio station within range was in Mount Pleasant and a friend of Dick's had a job as a custodian, earning $1 an hour. "That sounded pretty good to me," he says. So he went over to see if there was a spot for him. There was, as it turned out, as a sportscaster — at exactly the same salary his friend was making for his custodial duties.

Dick was, and still is at heart, an educator. He has a Doctor of Health Science degree and has taught at San Fernando Valley State College (now Cal State Northridge). He also taught two years at Indiana University, from which he graduated.

It was at I.U. that he met a young girl named Jeri Taylor, who became Mrs. Enberg. Her interests were in the arts.

"My wife didn't know anything about sports so I made a deal with her," he says. "I told her I would teach her about sports and she could teach me about ballet."

RESHAPING THE IMAGE OF THE TUBA . . . . .

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — The largest assemblage of tuba players in history is expected at Indiana University for the First International Tuba Symposium-Workshop.

About 400 persons are expected. In charge is IU Prof. Harvey G. Phillips, a leading tuba soloist.

He said the aims of the conference are "to redefine the role of the tuba; to reshape the image of the tuba and tubist; to improve methods, teaching materials and instrument design; to explore new directions in technique and in performance; to generate new compositions, and to expand performance opportunities."
